

HAT GIVES CLEW TO MURDER ON STATE HIGHWAY

San Jose Sheriff Links Money
Found on Suspect As Motive For Crime.

SAN JOSE, Dec. 23.—A hat discovered along the state highway near Warm Springs by Sheriff George W. Lyle of Santa Clara county and Deputy Sheriff Bert Brown of Alameda county is connected by the officers with an important clew to the slayer of Walter R. Dowdy, Palo Alto garage man, who was beaten to death in his automobile Wednesday night.

Sheriff Lyle holds the belief that the hat belonged to Harry Allen, who arrived in San Jose late Thursday night, hatless, bringing Dowdy's body and reporting to the police that the Palo Alto man had been set upon by bandits.

Lyle and his deputies are working on the theory that Allen killed Dowdy by hammering him with the hatchet that was later found by the officers, blood-stained, under the front seat of Dowdy's machine.

When searched, Allen had $120, including a $20 gold certificate, according to the officers. Sheriff Lyle has learned that Dowdy drew $150, including a $20 gold certificate, from the bank at Palo Alto before leaving on his last trip with Allen Thursday. Dowdy's empty purse was found in the automobile.

Allen is still held at the Santa Clara jail, while officers are trying to determine whether the murder was committed in Alameda, San Joaquin or Santa Clara county.

Man Arraigned for Smuggling Narcotics

SAN JOSE, Dec. 23.—Joseph Couch, charged with a felony in attempting to smuggle narcotics into the Santa Clara county jail about a week ago, was arraigned today before Judge J. R. Welch. It is said that Couch desired to plead guilty to the charge yesterday, the judge, however, setting the case over one week in order that the prisoner's past criminal record may be thoroughly investigated. Couch was caught by Jailer A. De Temple in the act of attempting to smuggle morphine and cocaine cleverly hidden underneath the sole of one of a pair of newly repaired shoes belonging to James Miller, imprisoned drug addict.

AUTOIST NABBED FROM AIRPLANE TURNED LOOSE

Di Fiore, victim of the first arrest for a traffic law violation from an airplane, made on Tuesday by Robert J. Byers, county traffic officer, was not convicted when he appeared in district court yesterday, the charge against him being dropped because of lack of sufficient evidence. Byers, who arrested Di Fiore on a charge of speeding by dropping a court citation from an airplane, declared following the dropping of the case that he could not press the charge because of the fact that the airplane in which he was riding with Lieutenant Charles Kruss had no speedometer and that therefore it would be impossible for him to fix definitely the speed at which Di Fiore was traveling.

Pen Women of San Jose Give Entertainment

SAN JOSE, Dec. 23.—The first of a series of Saturday morning entertainments scheduled by the local chapter of the League of American Pen Women was held this morning at the T. & D. theater, a chalk talk by James Swinerton, creator of the famous "Jimmie" cartoons, being the chief attraction of the affair. Swinerton's talk and his sketching delighted the large gathering of children and grown-ups who attended the entertainment in spite of the pressure of last minute Christmas shopping. The local Pen Women are planning several more morning entertainments for the near future, the dates and places of occurrence to be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Montgomery are spending the Christmas season with their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Frick, in Santa Barbara.

William Bensberg of Livermore is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick for the holidays.

Mrs. Floyd Patton, soprano, will render a recital at the Christian church on the evening of December 29. William Edward Johnson will be the accompanist.

The postponed Christmas fete planned by Vendome Parlor, N. D. G. W., will be held at Hubbard hall on the evening of December 29. Mrs. Howard Buffington is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Passenger Holds Up San Jose Taxi Man

SAN JOSE, Dec. 23.—Fear of a series of taxicab hold-ups such as have occurred recently in other cities of the state were expressed by police yesterday following the holding of a Norbore, driver for the Black and White Taxi Company, at the corner of First and Willow streets, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning by a passenger who Southern Pacific Company's passenger station. The taxi passenger, who was the Norbore, reached the corner mentioned, the passenger ordered Norbore to stop, saying that he had reached his destination. As the driver leaned over to read the fare register the passenger covered him with a revolver and robbed him of about $10. The hold-up may be the first or a series planned here by a gang of thugs who make this type of robbery their specialty.

KNIGHTSEN

KNIGHTSEN, Dec. 23.—The Farm Home Department ladies enjoyed a demonstration in candy making at their meeting last Wednesday.

Mrs. B. Ohmsted and daughter, Rosa, were in Stockton on a shopping trip.

WATSON OPPOSES INDIANA PARTY PLAN OF BORAH

Indiana Senator, After Call
On President, Voices
Strong Objection.

By J. BART CAMPBELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—After a conference with President Harding at the White House this afternoon, at which Senator Borah's proposal for calling an international economic conference was discussed, Senator James E. Watson, Republican of Indiana, declared he was strongly opposed to the Borah plan.

Because of his close association with the administration, Senator Watson's announcement was interpreted in some quarters as indicating the administration will oppose the measure in the Senate, although Watson asserted he spoke for himself and not for the President.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—George Harvey, American ambassador to England, who sailed for New York today, will bring back to Europe with him conditions on which the United States is willing to participate in a reparations settlement. These conditions, it was learned in authoritative quarters, will reveal the extent to which the United States may be willing to intervene.

Ambassador Harvey, immediately upon his arrival in Washington, will make a full report to Secretary of State Hughes and President Harding upon European conditions.

Ambassador Harvey will reach Washington upon the eve of the allied plenipotentiary conference in Paris.

Stanford Dean
NAMED TO HEAD
CHEMICAL CLUB

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 23.—Dr. Edward C. Franklin, professor of organic chemistry and dean of graduate study here, has been elected president of the American Chemical Society, according to advices received here.

This is the first time that the presidency of the society has been given any man west of the Mississippi.

The American Chemical Society is the national organization of chemists in the United States, and has a membership of about 15,000. The election of the president is made by the council of the society following a mail ballot by its members.

Dr. Franklin is a member of the American Academy of the Arts and Sciences of Boston, the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia, and of the National Academy of Sciences of Washington. He has had many other scientific honors conferred upon him, including his selection as one of the representatives of the American scientists invited by the government of New Zealand to the Scientific Congress held in that country in 1914.

GROVELAND PET BRUIN BREAKS CHAIN, IS SHOT

GROVELAND, Dec. 23.—The town's pet bruin bear has been released to stalks and other cuts. The big animal, which became so familiar to tourists, was the town's pet bear for several years.

The bear was chained to a post for several years, and was a source of amusement to the townspeople.

Alaska Railroads Need Feeder Lines

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 23.—Feeder lines are needed by the United States government railroad in Alaska, according to General Wiles P. Richardson, who, as representative of Secretary of the Interior Fall, made an inspection tour of the road.

Rail spur tracks and wagon roads, according to the general, would result in development of the mineral and agricultural lands which lie adjacent to the railroad.

Eventually the government must adopt a colonization plan for Alaska, General Richardson said, so that the country can be settled and fully developed.

Supervisor Plans
Theater at Hayward

Hayward, Dec. 23.—Construction of a theater and business buildings which will cost, it is estimated, in the neighborhood of $100,000, are being contemplated by C. W. Heyer, Alameda county supervisor here, it was announced today. Heyer at present contemplates starting construction shortly after the first of the year.

Tracy Observes Tradition With Christmas Tree

Cantata and Presents For the Children Form Part of Holiday Program.

TRACY, Dec. 23.—Blazing forth the Christmas message of cheer and brightness, the magnificent Tracy community Christmas tree glistered Thursday night in the center of the street in front of the city hall.

The hundreds yards of tinsel and hundreds of electric lights and glittering ornaments combined with the green of the fir boughs to make the effect. A large star sparkled from the top of the tree 50 feet from the ground. The tree will remain in place all during the Christmas holidays.

The tree was selected from the Oregon forests by special order from the West Side Fruit market and given to the people free as that firm's Christmas gift to Tracy. Chris Ekenberg supervised the erection of the tree; E. S. Abbott wired it and the decoration was under the direction of Edith Shields. The material was paid for by citizens.

This tree also heralded the community Christmas tree celebration held in the Arlington theater Thursday night.

The large choir of the First Christian church of Stockton repeated the Christmas cantata, "The Coming of the King," which was given in Stockton Sunday night. Santa Claus appeared following the cantata and distributed some 800 bags of candy to the children.

The Methodist church will have its Christmas observance Sunday night with a special service of song under the direction of Professor W. B. Morgan, the choir director.

A program was given by the high school orchestra here Wednesday night. It is proposed to repeat it soon after New Year.

TOOTHBRUSH IS STOLEN OUT OF STOCKTON HOME

STOCKTON, Dec. 23.—What will a burglar do with a toothbrush? The police have dealt with many peculiar kinds of theft, but never before have they heard of a burglar who would carry off a toothbrush. They think this one in particular is most fastidious. He entered the fashionable John I. Heffernan home, 1315 North Harrison street and packed off an overcoat, three watches, a razor, a fountain pen and a toothbrush.

Man Gets Divorce But Thinks Wife Dead

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Henry Lindsey of 1109 Market street, was granted a divorce today from Elizabeth Lindsey despite the fact that he believes her to be dead. He testified in the Superior court that on September 19, 1920, his wife had left home, causing her two children to remain alone all night. When she returned at 9 a. m. next day he was unbridled and she disappeared. Later a woman was killed in the automobile accident and he believes it was she. Nevertheless he determined to make sure of his freedom by obtaining a divorce.

Vatican May Call Great Church Meet

ROME, Dec. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—The probability that the pope will call a meeting of the entire Catholic Episcopacy in Rome during the next jubilee year was announced in the Papal Encyclopedia today. Such a meeting would be a continuation of the Ecumenical council which was held in Rome in 1870.

Pope Pius' encyclical recalls the recent conflicts in Italy and the efforts of the church to quiet them. The letter, enumerating present world evils, which it says are caused by a greediness for material things, says that the remedy is chiefly to be found in a return to Christ, which means peace, justice and love among all peoples, respect for order and authority and combating materialism as well as teaching true democracy and brotherhood.

SEVEN MEN ARE ARRESTED, HELD ROBBER SUSPECTS

Auto Party Arriving at Santa Fe From Denver Is Detained.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SANTE FE, N. M., Dec. 23.—Seven men who arrived in Santa Fe driving a large touring car were taken into custody here today for investigation.

Officers at Las Vegas wired local officials to arrest them, believing they might be the bandit fugitives who held up and robbed United States federal reserve bank employees of $200,000 at Denver last Monday.

It appears, however, that suspicions are based almost entirely on the fact that one of them cashed a brand new $5 bill at a restaurant at Las Vegas last night. The men carried suitcases heavily laden, and containing wearing apparel and the usual personal effects, but nothing of an incriminating nature. All gave Denver residential addresses, and in some cases business addresses which advices from Denver stated are being checked up.

DENVER BANDITS ARE SOUGHT IN ALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 23.—Discovery has been made here of one of the $5 bills stolen by armed bandits in the raid of the United States Federal Reserve bank truck at Denver last Monday, police officials here declared today. The bill was passed at a downtown restaurant last night, it was declared.

Police expressed positive belief that the bill was passed by one of the bandits. Federal secret service agents and local detectives and police are at work on the case. Every railroad station is being guarded and police assigned to highways leading out of the city have been instructed to examine every vehicle leaving town.

Through last night and today federal officers working in conjunction with a score of detectives and plain clothes policemen scoured all hotels and rooming houses in the city, and a number of cabarets and known haunts of gunmen in the hope of coming up with one of the robbers.

Triple Auto Crash Caused by Dense Fog

REDDING, Dec. 23.—A dense fog between Red Bluff and Cottonwood was today declared the primary cause last evening of a triple automobile accident. Mrs. Helen Seattle collided with a car driven by Arthur L. Watson of Redding, then dashed on 290 feet and collided with Chris Stables of Anderson. All aboard, including several women and a baby, were pinned under the three wrecks. Watson, releasing himself, began the work of untangling. All were rescued without serious injuries. Watson, Redding hotel man, with four ribs broken, sustained the worst injuries of all.

to the wellbeing of the industry." Walter Hays, theatrical producer, announced today that a mass meeting in behalf of Arbuckle will be held next Tuesday afternoon at the Egan Little theater.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle arrived here today to spend Christmas with his brother, A. C. Arbuckle. He said that the details of his return to the screen would not be worked out until after New Year's.

NEW YORK TAKES HAND.
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Rev. Charles MacFarland, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, today made public a letter to Will Hays, head of the motion picture industry, calling for an explanation as to why he, as a member of Mr. Hays' "committee on public relations," was not consulted in the reinstatement of Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, film comedian.

Rev. MacFarland is a member of the executive committee of the committee on public relations which Mr. Hays organized recently from various religious and civic organizations to aid him in putting the movies on a higher plane. His letter, besides raising the point of why he was not consulted, declared that "unfortunately the impression has gained ground that this is due to pressure of financial interests invested in Mr. Arbuckle's pictures."

HAYS STANDS PAT.
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 23.—Numerous criticisms publicly announced against re-instatement of Roscoe Arbuckle in filmdom will not in the least affect the decision of Will Hays, national motion picture censor, stating the film comedian "a chance to come back." Hays said here last night.

"I stand on that absolutely. I have nothing to add to it, and no explanation to make. I am perfectly content. My action does not mean that the pictures Arbuckle made before the trouble are to be released. It simply means that he has a chance to go back into the profession and make good if he can. Every man in the right way and the right time is entitled to his chance to make good."

Hays passed through Topeka last night on his way east.

Blockade Drives Rum Runners to USE Airplanes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Rum running by airplane is the next move for the few desperate sea bootleggers who still are marooned off the coast with their Christmas cargoes, prohibition officials said today.

The bootleggers lolling off the three-mile limit, cannot get small boats to run the blockade, their supplies are running dangerously low, and every night pirates are putting to sea and are making life for the bootlegger anything but a joy, the dry navy officials declared.

According to John D. Appelby, zone chief of the dry navy for the prohibition agents, his airplanes have been requisitioned. He said today that he had received information that fifteen planes were being prepared on the Long Island coast or along the Jersey marshes in the hope that they can beat the enforcement game.

Officials at headquarters assert that the bootleggers have practically given up hope of putting liquor into New York for Christmas, but they still think they can land some for New Year's Day. The dry navy, it is said, has not lessened its blockade.

Columbus Knights Cabled Greetings By Pope Pius XI

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Pope Pius today cabled the Knights of Columbus, a fraternal organization, with his Christmas greetings. The Holy Father's Christmas greetings to the United States and all other American countries where the Knights of Columbus operate.

The message, signed by Cardinal Gaspari, secretary of state for the Holy See, said:

"The Holy Father, at this Christmas tide, in recognition of the patriotic work of the Knights of Columbus, sends his best wishes for the spiritual and temporal comfort to all members of the order wherever they reside, bestowing his apostolic blessing on their families and conveying his esteem to the people of America."

What Dorothy Dix Says

A PROBLEM IN HEARTS.

A very young girl fell in love with a man who didn't love her, and who married another woman. Ever since the party of the first part has gone about carefully cultivating a secret sorrow, and nursing what she believes to be a broken heart. Now a fine man has really fallen in love with the beautiful lady, and wants to marry her, and make her happy. She admires and esteems the man, and is very fond of him, but she can't bring herself to marry him because she doesn't feel towards him exactly as she did towards her first love.

And she wants to know what to do. Of all the idiotic crimes that women have ever committed, the most absolutely asinine is the cult they have made of faithfulness. Somehow a woman accounts it unto herself for righteousness never to get over a sorrow, or a disappointment. You will hear women speak with positive reverence of a woman who has wept over the same old grief for forty years, and they universally regard one of their own sex who isn't a good mourner as a heartless creature, who is no better than she should be.

Why, then, do you see women dooming themselves to lonely spinsterhood because of some blighted romance of their youth; and women breaking their hearts over husbands who have mistreated them in every possible way, and these poor, foolish creatures actually take credit to themselves for their adhesiveness, a virtue in which they are only excelled by a sticky fly paper.

A world of a lady, like my correspondent, will probably say that our hearts are untruly members, and that we cannot tell them either to cease from loving one person, or make them love another. To a degree this is true, but there is one sorrowful cure for an old love, and that is to see the beloved one after he or she has been married a number of years.

After married men and women have been married for a long time, for some strange and inexplicable reason the man or woman whom we loved before we, or she, was married, are so absolutely stripped of all illusions to us that our one impulse is to rush home, and get down on our knees, and thank God that we escaped getting our early sweetheart.

Perhaps it is because we have always remembered John as a little young god with ambrosial locks, and a poetry in the moonlight, and it is such a shock to see him old and hair windowed, and with no conversation except about the grocery trade. Perhaps it is because we have always remembered him as a starry-eyed, and slim, and that it is so disillusioning to see him fat and frumpy with his children clinging to his legs, and concerned only with getting baby food, and remedies for the cold.

Rememberable people, John and Mary, doing their duty as citizens, and did I ever love you? Did I ever break my heart because I loved you? Then I wonder the years in which you seek the "heartbreak" let me seek the "heartbreak" before it is too late.

As for my correspondent fearing a heartbreak because she does not feel towards this second love as she felt towards her first, that is the love of passion, there is only one cure for love, with its wild thrills and raptures, as there is only one cure in a lifetime. The years after us, they slow down our pulses, they take away the keen philosophy.

The boy and girl are mad for each other. They think nothing of the world counts but being together, and that nothing is important but their love. They believe that they will perish if they are parted, and that is a cruel fate should part them, they would die of broken hearts.

The mature man and woman know that for a love to endure it must have many elements beyond physical attraction. They have found out that the world consists of a number of things besides love, and they are under no apprehensions of dying of broken hearts.

Not this sober second love endures far longer than the hectic first love. First love is a fierce conflagration that soon burns itself out, and leaves only a handful of ashes as a reminder that it has been. The second love is like a steady fire upon the hearthstone at which one may warm oneself for a lifetime.

To measure a second love by a first is as ridiculous as it is to measure the appetite of a grown person by that of a child, because you no longer crave chocolate creams does not prevent you from relishing the cake.

And that was many years ago—
Since I went forth into the world—
As do all bounding village boys—
But there had always been an urge—
To wander back—
If but to see just for an hour—
The place that held my youthful dream—
To look for lost air castles—
So as I passed along the road—
Some farmers made their way to town—
In rattling fivers—
I missed the sad-faced old gray nags—
They used to urge into a trot—
To sound of rattling harness—
When I lived there—
And as I entered my home town—
I scarcely noted any change—
Save that the fences leaned with age—
As do old men—
And gates were hanging half in doubt—
But some had given up all hope—
And lay moldering on the ground—
Half hidden by the swaying weeds—
A freckled squint-eyed youth stood still—
Hand shading eyes—
And gawked at me against the sun—
The son of one in years gone by—
That was the subject of sweet dreams—
And me the dreamer—
And she stood there but in the form—
That dulleard years had clothed her in—
I could not trace one reason why—
That I had wasted midnight oil—
Composing sad heart-broken verse—
Because one night beneath the moon—
She told me—"No—My angel face—
And as I walked along Main Street—
Old men stood bawling in the sun—
And when I spoke they cupped their ears—
They knew me not nor seemed to care—
That as a boy I used to play—
Along these streets—
The Opera House was boarded up—
And signs upon a fence told me—
A circus had stopped there one day—
Three years before—
But well I knew these modest folks—
Find pleasures that we know not of—
Nor could we understand—
For we who tread the pell-mell streets—
Must have the roar of traffic in our ears—
We cannot understand the quiet life—
That satisfies these simple folks—
I took the road from Placiddown—
With drooping head—
Like one who leaves an old church-yard.

Child's History of the HUMAN RACE

CHAPTER 233.

Besides his other bad points, King William was greedy for gold. Before he came to England, the English had been in the habit of paying money to the Danes to keep away. This payment was called the Danegeld. To raise it, special taxes were collected.

William still collected these taxes. He kept the money for himself. Even with this extra money, the new king did not think he had enough. He decided he would have a big book made, and that it should contain a record of all the land and other property in England. Then he could do more taxing.

An English writer of that time says: "He sent out his men to every shire in all England. There was not a yard of land or an ox or a cow or pig which was not written down." This record was called the Domesday Book, which means "the book of the days of doom."

It meant "doom" so money of earls and knights and abbots. To raise this money, the common people had to work harder on the land of their masters. William did not care to spend all his time in England. You have heard of one trip he made back to France. Twenty years after he had become king of England, he went back again.

The ruler of France at that time was Philip the First. He made a jest about his visitor which William didn't like. As a revenge, William told his men to burn the town of Nantes. That was his last cruel act. He rode boldly between the burning houses. His horse died and he was hurled to the ground.

William's body was to be buried on some land in Normandy, which he had given to a group of monks. After the grave was dug, a knight stepped forward and cried: "I forbid you to bury this robber here! He took this land away from my father!" The knight was paid for the land and the burial took place.

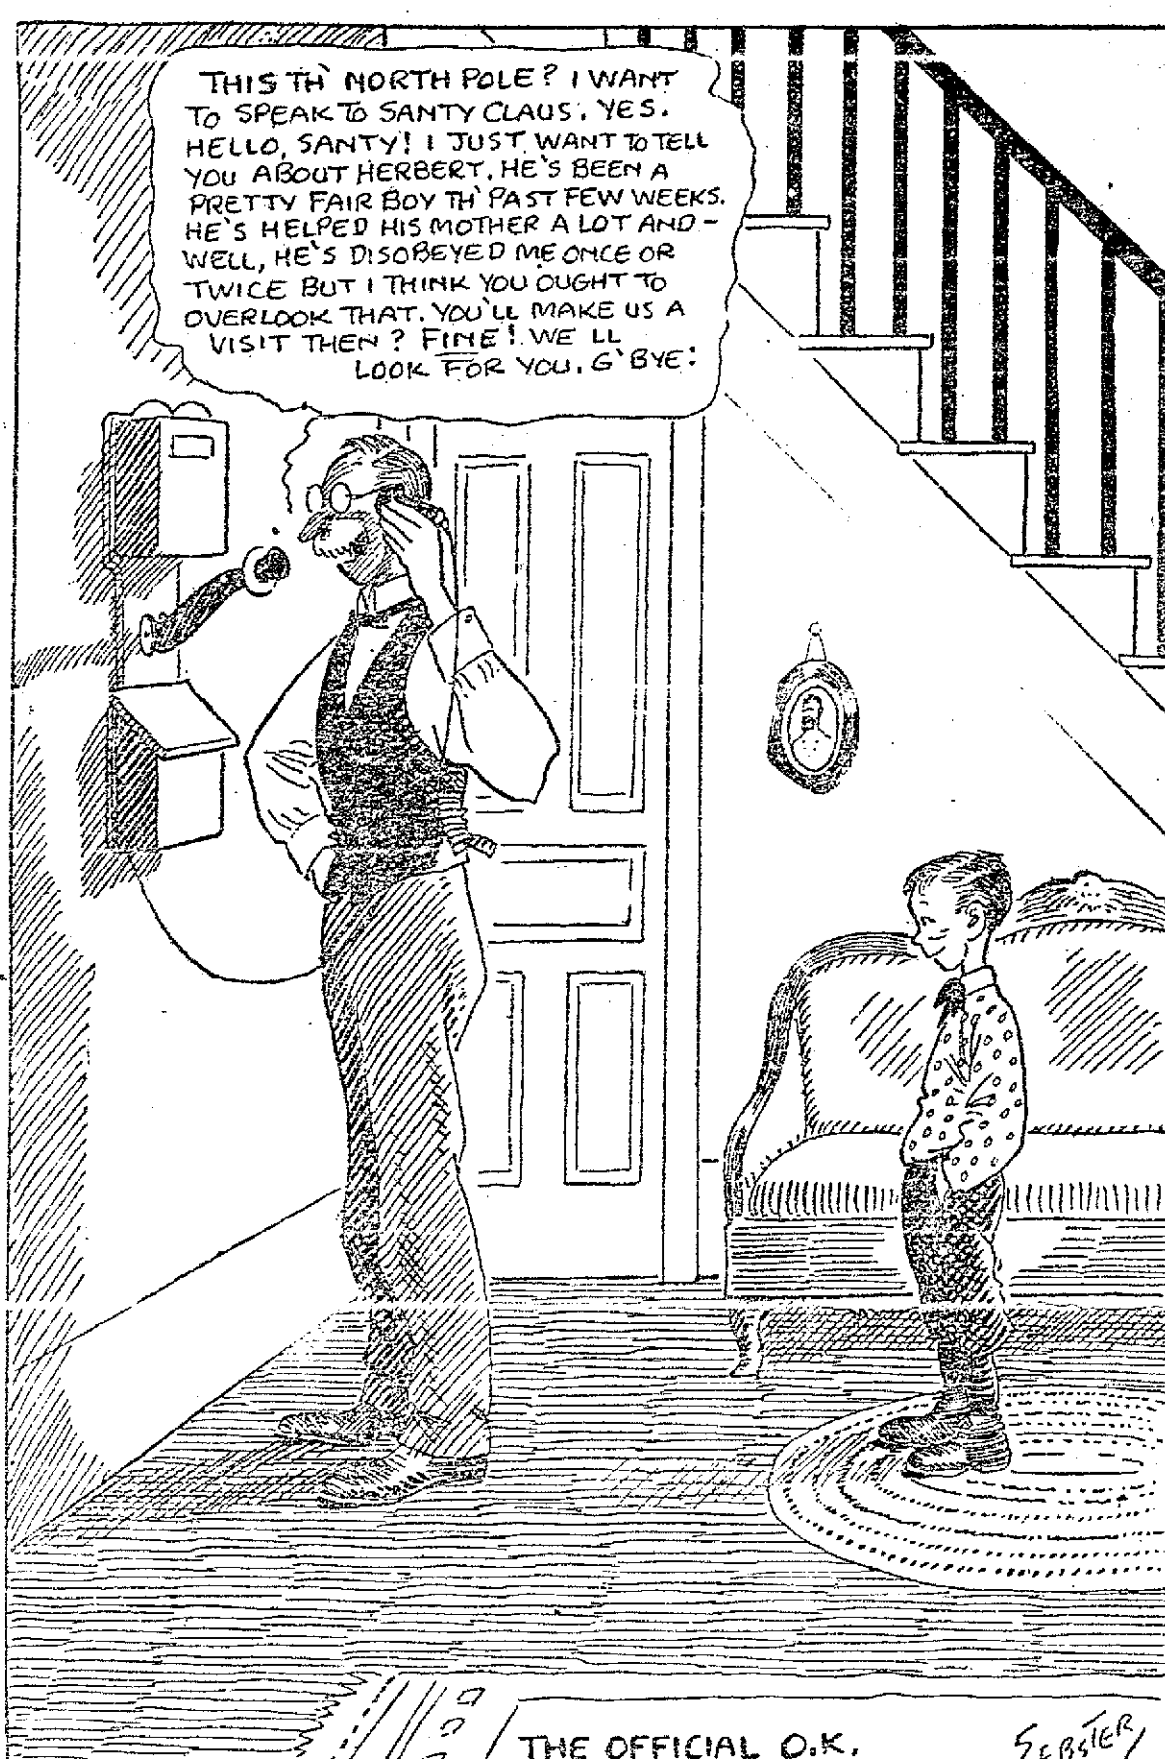

A Norman knight with large shield and battle-axe.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

JUBILEE'S PARTNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

And just then I soaked him one and he grabbed me.

Me and Jubilee did not wake up this morning till my father and mother had come to work and my aunt had called me at the door. I would not of woken up then only if my mother had not come up and told me that Jubilee was here.

Me and Jubilee knew that I slept with him. So I got out and let him down by the rope in his teeth. Then I went down and milked the cow and her doiter and gave the turkey all the corn he would eat out of my hand, and told him it was not my fault he was going to have his neck chopped off.

He said: "Gobble-gobble," and spread out his tail and looked proud, so he must have felt better.

He said: "I would have liked to have felt of him to see if he was very fat in the best parts of him, but I was afraid he would know what I was thinking of and I did not want to hurt his feelings."

My mother fried me some pancakes and bacon and eggs and gave me some jelly to eat on my pancakes, and some milk to drink and kissed me. I thought I would ask her to let me put a string on the turkey's neck and lead him over to Yoniss's to play with, but she wouldn't let me. She said it probably would not be killed till tomorrow so me and Jubilee went over to Yoniss's. Her mother told me to come in and take off my coat but Yoniss said we would rather go sliding.

When we got down to the hill by the pond the whole bunch was there and we were surprised to see Mealy and Spider Gutwaltz. And there was a man with them, and it was their uncle. When they saw me Mealy said: "There is the boy that is always chasing us." The man did not say anything to me and Yoniss slid down hill and we went almost to the railroad track, and when he got off his slide I was right by him, and I bet he saw the look in my eye because he said: "You better let me alone!" And just then I soaked him one and he grabbed me.

A Stranger in These Parts.

John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, is willing to give a chance to every applicant who comes along seeking a place on his baseball team. The method has yielded him several good players, also at least one good laugh.

One morning the club was at practice on the Polo Grounds when a lank youngster, evidently just from the country, got inside the inclosure somehow and made his way to where McGraw was sitting on the bench watching his performers cavort over the diamond.

"Mister McGraw," said the youth, "I'd like mightily to get a chance to play ball for you."

"What position do you play?" snapped McGraw.

"Right field," stated the youth.

"All right; grab a glove and go out yonder and show me what you've got."

The youngster shifted his weight from one leg to the other and looked at him appealingly.

"Heard what I told you, didn't you?" barked McGraw.

"Go on out yonder and let me see what you can do."

"Mister McGraw," said the youth, "I'm a stranger in this here town and this is the first time I've ever been up here, and I'd like to ask you which is right field in this park!"

SNOBS.

There are superior folks about us. Of course once they are aware of their class they take a toboggan which deposits them where they belong—far below their own rating. Moses coming down from the mountain of vision "wist not that his face shone."

To live on Quality Street a man must have served his fellows in distinct fashion. For example, read the list in the American Hall of Fame. The "class" of European aristocracy, of Newport fashionables and the movie melodramas is, for the most part, pure fiction and bunk. The snobbery of wealth, of culture and piety is digging its own grave. Room for the only class worthy to walk the earth—the SERVERS!

Of all pests, none can quite equal the pious prigs who are pedestalled above the maddening crowd and talk down in condescending phrase of the superior virtue of their own cult disclosed only to the initiate. These people have been elected by their own ballot to sit in judgment on the morals, customs and habits of their less fortunate brethren.

The inspiring leaders and saviors of men come into the smoke and grind of human toil to be one with the world's workers; not to be aloof, not to condemn but to heal and comfort and save. The credential of goodness, like art, is often its concealment.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHRISTMAS.

Two days before Christmas, and all through the woods, the animal children had been pretty good. Some stockings had been hung on the chimney with care and others were draped over the back of a chair.

And on this day had been Uncle Wiggily called to Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy and asked:

"Is there anything more to do before Santa Claus comes?"

"I think not," answered the musical lady housekeeper. "You have brought in everything for the tree, the stockings, the holly, the candy and the nuts. As for the chimney, that is always on the roof, and as for presents—"

"We must wait until Christmas morning for them," said Uncle Wiggily, with a twinkle of his pink nose.

And at last Christmas came. The long night passed finally, and then the sun rose bright and golden over the snowy lands.

"Merry Christmas, Uncle Wiggily!" Merry Christmas! cried Nurse Jane, for she was up before the bunny rabbit that Christmas morning.

"The same to you, Nurse Jane," greeted Uncle Wiggily. Then he looked at the Christmas tree and found, among other things, a bright new red, white and blue rhinoceros crutch, striped like a barber pole.

"That's from me!" said Nurse Jane.

"And this is from me," said Uncle Wiggily to Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, giving her first kiss and then handing her one of the stockings of Mr. Whiterash, the poorest of the gentlemen. The stocking was filled to the top with diamond earrings, a gold bracelet and many other fine gifts. But, best of all, was a new catnip spoon.

"That's what I wanted to wear when I took the Christmas dinner!" laughed Nurse Jane, and she tied the apron strings around her waist and began to get breakfast.

After breakfast many of the animal boys and girls came to the kitchen to see Uncle Wiggily show their presents to Uncle Wiggily.

Sammie Littlefoot had skates; Susie, his sister, a rubber doll that squeaked when you squeezed her gently in the back. Curly Teetotal, the piggy boy, had a corn to boot, and a new hat.

And the groundhog boy, had a sled with a red, lettuce on it.

Oh, there were so many presents that I couldn't begin to tell you all 'bout them. As for the animal boys and girls were chattering with Uncle Wiggily, out in the kitchen there were the most wonderful perfumes and odors that you can imagine—roast turkey, cranberry sauce, celery, jam, jelly.

It just makes me hungry to even write about it.

"Let's have fun and play games!" cried Jennie Chitupink.

"Oh, yes," shouted the others, and so they were playing games in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow.

When the fun was at its best, and Uncle Wiggily was laughing so much that he nearly dropped the pink twinkie off the end of his nose, all of a sudden, the Bob Cat began sneaking around the hollow stump bungalow looking for ears to nibble.

The Bob Cat heard the merry squeak of laughter in Uncle Wiggily's house, but this joy only made the bad chap the more glum and gloomy, like Gabriel Grubb or Old Scrooge.

"If I could nibble some of their ears they wouldn't laugh so hard," growled the Bob Cat to himself.

He just got to have some ear nibbles for my Christmas," grumbled the bad chap. "I'll knock on the door, and get in before they can stop me. Then I'll nibble."

The Bob Cat went to the door of the hollow stump bungalow and knocked. As it happened Jackie Bow Wow was the nearest door and opened it before Nurse Jane or Uncle Wiggily could do so. And as Uncle Wiggily was playing Blind Man, Nurse Jane and Jackie saw the Bob Cat for the moment.

"Turn—turn—turn!" growled the Bob Cat. "I came after Uncle Wiggily's ears to nibble."

"Do you mean as a sort of Christmas present?" asked Jackie, trying to think of a way to save Uncle Wiggily.

"You I want ears for a Christmas present!" snarled the Bob Cat. Jackie looked around and saw a pair of cat ears sticking out of his own Christmas presents, so he knew what was in it.

"What a moment!" he told the Bob Cat. Then the doggie boy handed the Bob Cat the box from the mouse and said: "There is a Christmas present for you!"

Thinking it held Uncle Wiggily's ears, the Bob Cat opened the box quickly. But no sooner had he loosened the cover than out flew a zoblin jack-in-the-box, and it hit the Bob Cat on the nose and frightened the bad chap so that he howled and cried out:

"O, wow! What a queer Christmas present. Oh, how sore my nose is!" and away he ran and Jackie, the doggie chap, laughed like anything. Then Jackie told how he had saved Uncle Wiggily's ears and they all said he was very brave.

And so there was a most jolly Christmas, but all it was over and the bunny rabbit said:

"Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night!"

And for Uncle Wiggily's ears, the animal boys and girls as they scampered home over the snow, they all said he was very brave.

What does your wife do?

Said the man who wears glasses.
Some folks have all the luck in the world. Take the man who doesn't have to keep a pair of specs perched astride his nose. He never has to hunt for his "cheaters" when he wants to read something, while I am always forced to support my eyesight with crutches.
Taint right.
Said the man who does not wear glasses:
To wear them. They make me look so dignified. They add an air of seriousness to the most trifling thing. They make a guy look "endless" and add to his appearance in every way. A fellow with 'em is a fellow with 'em.
Taint right!

AMERICA TO SPEAK.

It is increasingly apparent big events are shaping in the area of international finance. The new year bids fair to see the solution to the long delayed problem of aid to Europe. That subject which has called repeated conferences of premiers and will call another in Paris on January 6 is to receive a contribution of American thought.

No one has attempted to predict what form American aid to Europe will take and how this country can assume the role of conciliator and friend. Yet the administration is studying the subject. Ambassador Harvey has been called back to deliver what information and suggestions he may have, and the hint direct has come from the White House that on the reparations issue, "The United States has not been inactive."

When the allied premiers adjourned at London it was with a feeling of hope not to be accounted for by what they had done. It was said then they had received a promise of an early action by this country to bring some degree of unanimity in opinion. Within the week the hint has gone to France and the talk of seizing the Ruhr lands has been quieted.

Europe is looking to the United States for constructive suggestions. Doubtless, it is also looking to America for money or concessions. It would not be at all surprising if the close of the holiday season were to see a new and definite policy disclosed and an active place assumed by this country in those discussions which have to do with reparations and war debts.

WOODROW WILSON QUITS LAW.

Retirement of former President Wilson from the law firm of Wilson and Colby will be taken by many to indicate his intention to devote his entire time to politics. There is, however, another phase to the subject. The business of the partnership of the former President and Bainbridge Colby is largely that which involves the government and the actions of United States officials. Many of these officials were appointed by President Wilson and many of the judges before whom the actions would go for a hearing were his appointees. Mr. Wilson is said to have severed his connection with the legal firm out of a feeling of delicacy which will be understood and appreciated. Owing to the state of his health he has been able to give to the business little more than the weight of his name. It is now announced his health has improved and that he is, indeed, taking a new and more active interest in politics. While the resignation may not have been more freedom to make another try for the leadership of his party.

THE TEST FOR POINCARÉ.

The test of the Poincaré government in France will come in January when the German payment will be due. Then Poincaré's demands for seizures of the Ruhr lands will become vital and immediate issues.

Another meeting of the allied premiers is to be called on January 6, but nine days before the German payment becomes due. There is, of course, a chance agreement regarding reparations will be reached at this conference, but the record of conferences in Europe does not make this chance appear bright. If there is no settlement made then and if the Germans default in their payment as they say they must, Poincaré will face a crisis.

Europe is speculating on the outcome and is taking account of a formidable opposition to the Poincaré program which has developed in France. Poincaré has been outspoken and insistent, and so much so that he stands to lose as much by backing down as by going ahead with his plans. There is difficulty in either path. He must yield to the allies or he must stand by a position which would mean that France will "go it alone."

There is no mistaking the fact there is an element in France advocating moderation in the demands upon Germany. There is another group, which includes the fiery Clemenceau, and cannot be called moderate in any sense and yet disapproves of any move as drastic as taking over the rich Ruhr fields.

In Paris today the fall of Poincaré as premier is discussed as a possible outcome of the failure of the coming Paris conference to reach an agreement, and the politicians have gone so far as to mention a cabinet to succeed his. After January 15, it is asserted, Briand may return.

MEXICO PICKING UP.

The depression which was felt in the early part of 1921 throughout a wide part of the United States was slow in reaching Mexico. When it did come, it arrived out of the open sky and caused a serious situation. Mexico was not prepared.

Up until June merchants were buying from the United States, England and elsewhere and the imports recorded heavy totals. Then they stopped. Overstocks of fuel oil caused a temporary collapse of the petroleum industry. Credits were extended, and there was a general cessation of rural industry.

Mexican troubles are not all laid to the fuel collapse of 1921. The confiscatory actions of the Carranza regime demoralized the banking system and left it powerless to meet a crisis. There is a belief that all who can do so are hoarding gold.

Now there are being applied in Mexico increased credit precautions, the gradual elimination of speculative merchants is being brought about and a better condition is the result. The government is studying means to overcome the shortage of gold currency.

The year 1923 will start with improved condition in Mexico which will be reflected in a number of industries in this country.

The only surprise in the officially tabulated vote on the state amendments is the disclosure of the fact Amendment Seven, the absent voters measure, was carried by a substantial majority. California tried three times to enact this law which will give the ballot to traveling salesmen, railroad men and others whose duties take them away from their home towns on election day, and each vote showed gains in the ranks of the supporters. It was believed from the unofficial returns the third defeat had been recorded but by a narrow margin. The law has been tried with success in other states and its working will be watched here with considerable interest.

The collapse of the proceedings to oust by impeachment Attorney General Daugherty is not a startling surprise. They never had the appearance of seriousness. The Congressmen who encouraged the effort had very little to go on when it came to a show-down. And if anybody expected to make political or any other kind of capital out of it he must be realizing in some measure what a boomerang is.

"Fifty cities report zero-weather." That is almost as many as reported seeing Clara Phillips

PRACTICAL REFORESTATION.

Encouraging progress is being made, according to official statements, in the work of restoring, by tried and effective processes, the vast areas of denuded redwood forest lands in the Pacific Coast sections of the United States. The reports of progress are encouraging because they indicate the realization, within measurable years, of the results sought. The present is an impatient if not an impulsive age. Those who build insist that they themselves must see and enjoy the fruits of their labors. Thus it is that the inability to anticipate, in the span of a few years, a large result of even so commendable a work as that of forest restoration, has dulled the zest of those who otherwise might be inclined to bend their efforts to that undertaking.

But now, it is pointed out, convincing proof is produced that by proper care and attention even the mighty redwood forests, shorn of their timber can be restored to something approaching their former majesty in half a century. This should encourage those who are impatient to see the work of their hands respond to their thoughtful efforts, and certainly it should satisfy and inspire to greater undertakings those who see the problem of reforestation as one, not of today or tomorrow only, but of the ages.

It has been a matter of no little concern to the people of the United States that the tendency to waste the great natural timber supply has so long remained unchecked. There has been a prodigious misuse of timber, and this continues, at least in a degree, especially in those sections of the country where labor costs are high and where the remaining lumber supply shows only the first signs of depletion.

The redwood forests, unlike the white pine forests of Maine, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, and the long-leaf pine forests of the south, are of a quick and virtually spontaneous growth. Whereas the pine forest areas must be replanted either with seeds or saplings, the redwood second-growth shoots spring from the ground apparently by their own volition, and need supplementing only occasionally where conditions are not favorable. But it has been shown that the reforestation of all former timbered areas is possible and practicable, and that the exercise of care in replanting and of caution in protecting the young trees will insure a rotation of trees indefinitely. The need is to differentiate between the destructive and the conservative use of the supply now available. It is not difficult thus to prove that it is, in reality, inexhaustible.—Christian Science Monitor.

I have seen beauty as a morning star,
Too exquisite to stay the garish dawn,
But moving the dim way that the shadows are;
Shining and soon withdrawn.

I have seen beauty as a valiant wing
That strikes one blow against a stormy sky—
Ever a moving thing, a transient thing,
That gleams and turns to die.

Wail of a Colleen
My man has gone and left me
To loneliness, like an empty jug.
The tang of his pipe has gone out
From my house
And the rafters ache for his cursive;
His mug stands mute on the shelf
And his gun looks useless in the corner.
Oh, why did he go, the big man,
Away from me who loved the coarseness of his beard
And the smell of his old jacket?
There is nothing to do now
But cry.

The mug can be filled—
The gun is not useless—
The rafters are waiting.

Captain Fitzgibbon on the Fair Sex.
This modern feminist movement does not spring from a real desire on the part of women to escape the primitive club. It comes from the wish to gain wider freedom in the selection of the wielder thereof.

No normal woman asks for her "rights" when she can get romance.

In a sweetheart a man requires beauty, charm, etc.
In a wife, common sense, and more especially the capacity for self-sacrifice.

Which may explain why he often selects different women for these vocations.

If a spade is a spade why should a rake be called a rake?

The man who marries has three after two co. sciences to live up to—or kill.

The weaning sentimentalism makes as much trouble in the world as the old-fashioned villain of melodrama.

The woman who can be "all things to all men" before she marries is frequently the woman who fails to be anything to one man afterward.

The woman who demands compliments receives—oh, merely compliments!

It is to be hoped that the women who read these paragraphs will pardon any criticism which seems to be unfair. If you, true the truth about women, telling them how uniformly lovely they are, it does not interest them. They have heard it all so many times before. The only way to gain their attention is by being unjustly critical, by denying them those traditional excellencies of which they so complacently, one and all, believe themselves to be possessed.

And I should much rather have a woman amused at my mistakes about the sex than uninterested in my compliments.

Our Own Forecast.
Winter weather will be had in many parts of the globe, especially in Greenland, Iceland and environs of the North Pole.

A certain amount of weather may be expected in several portions of the globe simultaneously.
Rain or fair will be the order of the day in many localities, it is fearlessly predicted.
Weather will be had.

NOT ALL FRAUDS

To the Editor of the Tribune:
If fraud is practiced among the spiritual mediums in Oakland as has been stated in the TRIBUNE, I wish to thank you for your work in finding it out and exposing the same. But here are also true workers, message-bearers of the true spiritualism. It will stand the test. Humanity will soon advance more in one day in spiritual intelligence than in a hundred years.

It has in years in the past. The Christ-spiritualism blossoms forth into one great and grand circle of harmony, purity, truth and forgiveness. The true and sincere have courage.

The brave are not the ones that feel no fear, for that were stupid and irrational, but those who subdue their fears and dare the danger to be true to their spirituality.

Spicy If Not Cautious.
Before the silly season closes we must repeat the following from The American Mutual Magazine:

Man (in drug store)—I want some consecrated lye.

Druggist—You mean concentrated lye.

Man—It does nothing any difference. That's what I camphor. What's it sulphur?

Druggist—Fifteen cents. I never camphor with so much wit.

Man—Well, I should myrrh. myrrh! Yet I ammonia novice at it.—Boston Transcript.

DOWN ON THE MODERN FARM

EXCERPTS from the NATIONAL PRESS

Philadelphia Ledger: "Figures reported by the customs and excise department for Great Britain show a decline of $35,000,000 in revenue for the sale of spirits in a fiscal year and a gain of 8 per cent in the consumption of tea. England uses chiefly black tea from India and Ceylon. We procure our tea mainly from Japan. Russia depends on China. We find that tea was a novelty to Pepys as late as 1660. In that year he records: 'I did send for a cup of tea, a China drink, of which I had never drunk before.'"

Canter's Weekly: "If the prophecy of Mary Forbes, Paris seers, comes true, there won't be much left of Europe but a great spot by this time next year. Perhaps that is as good a way out for Europe as any. Mary predicts the Turks and the Austrians are soon to wage a great war with Western nations when the Turks will win. But as Mary says violent earthquakes will destroy most of Europe anyway, except parts of France and Russia, we should worry. Among other things a new continent will arise in the Pacific. We can have it doubtless, if we see it first."

Panegyric from the Medford Mail-Tribune: "The annual hog-heating contest of C. Vig Ashpole was inaugurated Monday with a simple act. The motif, a buxom swine, dangling dainty-like in the frigid meathouse was the cynosure of all eyes. The back view of the critter is astoundingly artistic, measuring an ax handle across the lumbar region. A finer pair of backstraps were never installed in a hog, the whole from the delicately pointed snout to the marcelled tail being colder than a barber's hand when King Winter rules the roost."

New York Sun: "In ordering the dismissal of two midshipmen and the reduction in rank of three others for taking part in hazing at the naval academy at Annapolis, President Harding acted with a foreknowledge of the naval officer's future power over subordinate hazing, unlike the clear light, is a sport in which a crowd attacks one man. It is unsportsmanlike, moblike and therefore unlike the type of the officer-to-be."

Oregonian: "Report from Brazil is that Oregon-grown apples are sold there as a California product. At that distance a buyer is not expected to differentiate state lines."

Not the least of the details of the Northern California booster movement is represented in the work of the California State Automobile Association in the signing of the roads leading to the giant redwoods. Those magnificent trees, though comparatively little known, are among the most appealing of California's scenic offerings and deserve to be more widely known and enjoyed.—Palo Alto Times.

Nevada would kill its murderers by the use of lethal gas, but the murderers object to the plan. Two of them who took human life have appealed to the supreme court against putting into effect the judgment against them, or the ground that the constitution prohibits cruel and unusual punishment.—Bakersfield Californian.

They were then children, 10 years old. Miss Young is the Chinese girl and Harry Choung, once a student in San Francisco and now said to be in New York, is the fiancé. The family of the boy have tried repeatedly to influence Miss Young to break off the engagement. This she steadfastly refuses to do, asserting with pathetic confidence that Harry will be faithful. Accordingly his family feel that they must not cease their search. To this end Choung Pong Four, cousin of Harry Choung, the other day advertised for the cousin.

After the couple had been engaged seven years Choung went to San Francisco to obtain an education and make his fortune. Three years later, after some difficulties with school authorities there, he suddenly disappeared without a word. In the years before he had been writing steadily, telling of his progress and building castles against the time he could return to Canton for his wedding. With his disappearance all communication ceased. Since, he has been reported in business in New York and has been seen occasionally by mutual friends. There are no other clues.—New York World.

MUSCLES.

A normal individual has not only control over his voluntary muscles, making them rest or work as he wills, but he has a peculiar muscle sense which enables him to know exactly what position any muscle is in even though the limb is moved in various ways by another person. The individual's eyes are closed or blindfolded. In locomotor ataxia this muscle sense is conspicuously feeble or lost, so that one of the earlier symptoms in many cases is inability of the patient to tell what posture a limb has been given if his eyes are covered. Loss of the muscle sense explains the peculiar clumsiness and difficulty in moving about in the dark which sometimes troubles a victim of locomotor ataxia long before he realizes that there is a serious trouble. It explains also the characteristic swaying of the patient when he closes his eyes while standing erect with feet together. It explains his awkwardness in finding the tip of his nose with his forefinger tip quickly and accurately with his eyes closed.

But the enfeebled muscle sense may be greatly strengthened by suitable exercise, with the result that the individual's control over his muscular activities improves remarkably.

It is a very suggestive fact, as pointed out by Dr. Maloney, whose work on muscle re-education for tabetics has been such a boon to victims of ataxia, that tabetics who are blind do not become so ataxic as tabetics who have good vision; that is, they preserve better muscle sense and their movements are not so uncertain or awkward. On this observation Dr. Maloney based his recommendation that persons with locomotor ataxia should carry out systematic muscular education exercises blindfolded.

One of the simplest and most helpful of these exercise consists in walking, or even in creeping on hands and knees up and down a strip of linoleum for a given number of times three times a day. As the blindfolded patient improves his performance, that is, learns through muscle sense and other than visual guidance to follow a fairly straight and unbroken course, the width of the linoleum strip is narrowed from time to time until ultimately a strip eight inches wide can be walked. Of course such exercise is done barefooted but pads may be worn on the knees for creeping. It is essential that there be no curious spectators or other persons present who are not in complete sympathy with the patient, and that the patient devote his thoughts strictly to his movements and strive to feel every sensation that accompanies the movements so that he may develop more muscle sense and suffer less from muscle anarchy.

C. OF C. PLANS TO DEVELOP CITY IN 1923

Oakland Young Man's Town, Says Harrison Robinson, New President, Outlining Program For New Year

"Oakland is a young man's town."

With these words Harrison S. Robinson, the newly-elected president of the Chamber of Commerce, struck the keynote this morning in an interview, in which he discussed the program which the Chamber of Commerce will initiate in the course of the year.

In the interview, Robinson outlined what he described as "a program of problems toward the solution of what we must constantly strive for."

1. Making the city better known and appreciated at home and abroad.

2. Get rapid transportation between neighboring communities and the center of Oakland.

3. Develop the harbor and its facilities.

4. Obtain an adequate supply of water and make provision for its distribution.

5. City planning, from which we gain both economy and beauty.

There are special and immediate matters of common concern, including the building of schools, the estuary bridge or tube, the community chest, the N. E. A. and other conventions.

7. Within the Chamber, among other things, we must improve the Manufacturers' Department, complete the Retail Department, organize a Research Division and give service and stimulus to the group of new men who are developing foreign trade.

NEWCOMERS SEE VALUES.

Amplifying his statement that "Oakland is a young man's town," the president of the Chamber of Commerce said:

"The newcomer sees and enthuses over the resources and opportunities of Oakland and vicinity. He marvels at our great bay, at the two splendid rivers connecting with it, at our proximity to the terminus of great crude oil pipe lines, our outstanding electrical power facilities, the level lands along the bay and the hills in the background, our schools and our climate, and he predicts that within forty years at the utmost, there will be a solid community stretching all the way from Richmond to Hayward."

"CITY IN INFANCY."

"It could be a fine thing to get Oaklanders to make a 6000-mile observation and comparison. Then we would have a city full of business men anxious to appreciate a real effort. Nearly 50 per cent of our citizens own their own homes. This makes for concerted action. Nowhere else is the average citizen and his family better qualified to receive the benefits of their environment, and make them their own. But usually it is only by comparison that we see what is about us. We need from the outside - on a city for development and people to help us see the unequal advantages of our city. The two will stimulate us to action and more action."

"Industrially, commercially and financially, Oakland is in its infancy."

From the business standpoint, Oakland is only about fifteen years old - dating back to 1909. This is the right time to get in on the "ground floor." It is neither too early nor too late to start here. We should advertise our city, everywhere as the place to plant your money or your life - preferably both - and see them grow gloriously. Our achievements are just beginning. The creation of great values is just starting."

Robinson then told of the Chamber of Commerce plans for advertising Oakland throughout the nation by means of a great motion picture, showing the city's industrial, commercial and home advantages, its institutions, its scenic settings and other desirable qualities. He also declared that he would favor employing a traveling representative, who would follow up the relations established by Chamber of Commerce trade extension tours, and who would otherwise be "on the spot" to work for the city's advancement in any locality. Discussing the advantages of publicity still further, he outlined a program by which the Chamber of Commerce will put out a series of booklets and pamphlets of interest to manufacturers and housekeepers, and said:

"The Chamber would avail itself of the responses received from the Californians Incorporated mailing list, and correspond with those interested."

Speaking of the attitude of Oakland toward the sister city across the bay, Robinson said: "We should follow a policy of self-respecting cooperation with San Francisco. But Oakland is not at all a somewhat solitary city like San Francisco. We look upon ourselves as the eldest city in the Eastbay family."

Capitalist Dies At Family Home

ALAMEDA, Dec. 22.—C. W. Westall, retired capitalist, died at the family home, 2134 Lincoln avenue, this morning.

Westall retired from active business more than a year ago due to failing health. He had been in business in Alameda for more than twenty-five years and was one of the directors of the Alameda Commercial National bank at the time of his death.

Born in England fifty-four years ago he came to California with his parents when four years of age and has resided in the state ever since. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

Annual Characterization in 'Trips of Philanthropy' Extend Over 25 Years.

Starting as Santa Claus for the Fred French Orphanage of Oakland, Thursday Captain William L. Day, personating St. Nicholas, began his annual career as Santa Claus this year. He will impersonate Kris Kringie over an eleven-day period this year. His Yuletide visits this year will include the following: County Infirmary of San Leandro, County Jail, Sons and Daughters of Washington, County Hospital, Salvation Army, Alameda County Tubercular Sanitarium at Arroyo, and several clubs, churches and lodges. Thursday evening, December 21, Captain Day appeared in the role of Santa Claus at a gathering of newsmen and carriers of the Eastbay cities at the Oakland Auditorium. He has assumed the role of Kris Kringie at Christmas time for more than 25 years.

CHURCH IN FIGHT OVER QUIGG WILL

Trinity Methodist Episcopal of Berkeley Will Attempt to Get Possession of Tidy Fortune Left By Woman

The contest over the will of Mrs. Mary B. Quigg, pioneer Berkeley woman who died on September 18, will open on December 27. The fight for the aged woman's holdings, which began two days after Christmas, was instituted by the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church of Berkeley.

The contentious claim that Mrs. Quigg was of unsound mind when she made her last will and that a former will should be admitted to probate. The former will, it is understood, gave practically the entire estate to the Trinity M. E. church. In her last will, Mrs. Quigg left only $1000 to that institution.

By the terms of her last will, practically the entire estate was left to Rev. Arthur H. Briggs, Mrs. Jennie B. Briggs, wife of Alah O. Briggs, who was appointed executor, and Mrs. Sarah F. Briggs, widow of Herbert F. Briggs.

FORMERLY A DRESSMAKER.

Mrs. Quigg, who was 54 years old when she died, was formerly a San Francisco dressmaker. At the time of the earthquake and fire, she left San Francisco as a refugee and never returned. She died at the El Repose Sanitarium in Berkeley, where she had been bedridden for about four years.

She was brought to the sanitarium by the Briggs family after she had sustained a stroke of apoplexy. At that time it was thought that she had only about $500 and it was decided to make her a ward of the county and the court. At the instigation of the Briggs family, guardianship proceedings were begun and Mrs. Quigg was made ward of the First National Bank of Berkeley and its trust officer. Then it was learned that Mrs. Quigg was worth $50,000.

Rev. M. Wythe, an Oakland minister, is said to have been one of the first to suggest to Mrs. Quigg that she make a will in order not to die intestate and have her money revert to the state.

SECOND WILL MADE.

At first she refused, but when others discussed the matter with her she had Attorney George Clark of Berkeley make her will, leaving most of her estate to Trinity M. E. church.

On October 28, 1920, she is said to have been induced to make a second will. This document is declared to have been drawn up by an attorney employed by Dr. Briggs. A clause in her second will which revokes all other wills made by her caused the beneficiaries under the first will to institute the Yuletide court fight.

The affair, which was attended by 10,000 people, was held at Fruitvale avenue and 14th street, in the open. The entire district had been illuminated by the Merchants' Association with 12,000 arc lamps. A committee consisting of Ernest E. Silva, Ernest J. Thirty police under command of Captain Thornwell Brown assisted in handling the crowd.

An elaborate musical program, including community singing, had been arranged, as follows: Christmas carols (community singing); "The New Born King," Mrs. Ada Drucks; "Star of Bethlehem," Mrs. Marion Davis; "Invictus," William Nottebrook; "Noel," Phil Jones. Instruments installed by the Magnavox company spread the music throughout the crowd. Addresses were made by Commissioner Frank Colbourn and by Harry L. Boyle, president of the school board. The community singing was led by Madame Caro Roma, and by the Roma Singers. A feature of the celebration was the great Christmas tree, forty-five feet in height.

Private Employment Agencies.—The report shows that the law against misrepresentations by employment agencies has been violated at least 1552 times. As a result of these violations, the bureau compelled private employment agencies to return to applicants more than $5000. According to the report, 184 agencies, for which information was tabulated, collected in the year 1921-1922, about $1,025,000 in net fees.

Free Public Employment Bureaus.—In contrast to the high fees charged by private employment agencies, the report shows a very large number of jobs given out by the free public employment bureaus, without any charge to the workers. As many as 345,410 jobs were given out by these bureaus to workers seeking employment during the two years covered by the report. About $220,000, it is estimated, is the amount saved annually to wage earners of the state through the operation of the public employment bureaus.

Violation of Labor Laws.—As a result of violations of labor laws, the bureau initiated eighty prosecutions and had secured fifty-one convictions. Among the laws frequently violated were the laws pertaining to payment of wages, the laws regulating the conduct of private employment agencies, the eight-hour law for women, the child labor law and others.

Depict Europe's Blue Christmas

WHAT does Christmas mean to Europe this year? In some countries, according to exclusive cables to the SUNDAY TRIBUNE, it merely is a date on the calendar—another day of hoping.

The Germans, for instance, Maximilian Harden says, pin all their hopes on American aid in solving their tangles, but the writer warns them that only industrial reorganization and cooperation will save the continent.

England, according to A. G. Gardiner, has temporarily buried all her problems—even unemployment—in an avalanche of Yuletide festivity.

France, declares Andre Tardieu, doesn't see a full stocking in any of the proposals emanating from America and insists that her claims must be respected.

And the distracted citizens of the "republic of Galicia," whose exiled officers Norman Matson has interviewed in Vienna, anxiously await word from Warsaw, Wilson, their duly appointed legal agent, that he has freed them from Polish domination and won for them real self-determination.

These and many other notable, exclusive features will be found in the news section of the SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

ON next Thursday evening the Casino Theater in New York will be the scene of a curious event and one worth witnessing.

It will be the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of this famous institution which has been conducted by the Casino Theater for the past seventeen years.

In honor of the opening arrangements have been made for a special fete and one of the features will be the presentation of a play, "The Conquerors," written by Eddie Dowling, star of "Salome" and "The Sign of the Cross," now playing at the Casino.

The roles in "The Conquerors" will be taken by players who are members of the old company, as at the Casino. In the cast will be such celebrities as Louis Mann, Clara Lipman, Jobyna Howland, Francis Wilson, Frank Doane and William Norris.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

"The Conquerors" has succeeded "The Defender" at the Casino Theater here.

The Casino Theater is more closely connected with America's theatrical history than any other playhouse in New York. Its opening attraction was "The Queen of Hearts," in which the Casino Theater, later to become one of America's foremost stars, had a small part for which he received $5 a week.

It was at the Casino that the show girls got their "chance" after they graduated from Koster and Bial's music hall which was then on Twenty-third street, just west of Sixth avenue. Lillian Russell, Dan Daly, Jefferson H. Angelis, Anna Held, George H. Fox, Charles A. Bickford, Marie Jansen, Della Fox and her curd, and David Warfield all appeared there.

In fact, Warfield made his first appearance at the Casino in 1894 in a play called "About Town" and "The Merry Widow." Dan Daly, Jacques Kruger, William D. Mack, Willis P. Sweetman, Jennie Reif, and Mayme Kelso were in the play.

Incidentally, it was at the Casino that Warfield first introduced on the stage his Hester street Hebrew character. He had tried it at the Solo Grounds during a benefit baseball game at a small stand and it was such a hit that George Lederer permitted him to use it in the show.

"Nobody's Fool" has gone to the Casino and a new thing is terminated the dispute between Alexander Pitou, Lee and J. J. Shubert and Alex. Critch, which was threatening to close the Casino.

Assume life-size proportions on the eastern seacoast, where the quarrel was battling over the respective "rights" of each of the members. Alex Dale writes May Robson and for two seasons May Robson used it with success throughout the country. She played as usual under the direction of Pitou, who had secured the rights to the play in a perfectly legitimate manner from Dale. Then Alex Critch stepped in and put Miss Robson forth in "Mother's Millions."

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Miss Minnie Marcorn made her debut in Boston in "Foggy Ferry" at the Park Theater.

Then the Shuberts got hold of the piece and put it on the stage. At that moment the battle started. Pitou laid claim to a share in the profits on the ground that he was the first to produce it. He had seven relinquished his rights. He served notice through his attorneys on the Shuberts, but the latter decided that the show was not going to startle Broadway, so they closed it after the Brooklyn engagement.

EXITS AND ENTRANCES

While shows are being hurried to the storehouse "The Bat" continues to fly with great success. Reports from New York set forth that the gross achieved $4,000,000. There are eleven companies on tour in the United States and the play is touring England, India, Australia and is being prepared for South Africa.

Within two weeks thirteen plays have closed in London. They are "Rockets," "Ph. Phil," "Mary Stuart," "Cenci," "My Old Dutch," "Destruction," "Merchant of Venice," "Wanted," "Happiness," "Dear Brutus," "Round in the Sun," "Balance," "Second Mrs. Tanager" and "The Smith Family."

Bill Hart is in the east negotiating for a vaudeville tour.

"Masked Men," the anti-Ru Klex Klan show, lasted one performance in Baltimore. This is the second propaganda play of the type to be shown in the city. The show has been withdrawn from Georgia.

Word filters through from Chicago that the phenomenal run of "Sombol" is due in no small part to Al Johnson's individual efforts. By this time ninety per cent of the show-going population call the comedian by his first name; he stands in the lobby and greets all the customers; and at the end of the show offers to sing anything they want. The show sometimes runs until midnight, but the gross receipts tell the story. The average is $55,000 weekly.

Edna Shaw De Cew, formerly of the Alcazar show in San Francisco, has been made director of the community theater in Anaheim, her home.

Oakland Tire Firm Gets Big Contract

Received another substantial boost today when the Sturges Tire and Rubber company was awarded a contract which will provide for night and day operation over a three-year period.

V. K. Sturges, president and general manager of the company, has just been advised that his company has been given this contract running into several million dollars, and is making preparations for the immediate expansion of its present operations. In order that he may begin its fulfillment immediately after January 1, the Sturges Tire and Rubber company entered into competition with the tire companies in all parts of the United States, in seeking this work. It was compelled to put its product up against the product of eastern factories, and to enter a competitive bid against these eastern firms.

order will be shipped east, reversing the usual order of things, and allowing the west to supply the east rather than the east to supply the west.

Elks Give Dinners to 175 Families

ALAMEDA, Dec. 23.—The Alameda Lodge of Elks will provide 175 indigent families in Alameda and the county with Christmas dinners, according to an announcement made today by John Lowman, chairman of the committee in charge of distribution. The dinners will be taken to the families next Sunday afternoon in the machines of various club members.

ASK THE TRIBUNE Bureau of Information

"I have a child needing hospital treatment, but I am unable to find out for me if there is any place in the Eastbay where the child could get the treatment free, or for a small charge?" We suggest that you take your child, if it is over 7 years old, to the Alameda County Health Center, Thirty-first and Grove streets, or if it is under 7 years of age, take it to the regular Baby Hospital at Fifty-first and Dover and have it examined. Take the child between 8 a. m. and 9 a. m. Then if clinical treatments are necessary they will give them. If not, they will diagnose the case and send you to the proper place.

"Please publish a good receipt for preserving citron." Five citron melons; 2 1/2 lbs. sugar; half tablespoonful powdered alum. Peel the melons, cut in slices, boil until tender in water and the alum. Drain and rinse in cold water. Make a syrup of the sugar and the juice of two lemons, add the grated rind of half a lemon. A little ginger root is also good, added. Put in the sliced citron and cook. Simmer slowly for a few minutes. Fill jars and seal.

The TRIBUNE Information Bureau will answer all questions of a general nature, except school or legal problems, debates, trade and firm names and queries as to the time of day.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Lillian Bross, exonerated by a coroner's jury which investigated the death of her husband, Oswald Bross, a few days ago, was charged with his murder in a complaint issued yesterday at the district attorney's office.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—John Dunham, negro, who claimed to be 121 years old, died at his home here yesterday. He worked for his living to the time of his death.

Thornton Guilty Of Syndicalism

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Dec. 23.—After deliberating nearly three hours, a jury composed of three women and nine men, tonight returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Felix Thornton, I. W. W. member, who has been on trial here this week on a charge of criminal syndicalism. He will be sentenced Tuesday morning by Superior Judge J. W. Mahon.

NEGRO DIES AT 121. PARIS, Dec. 23.—John Dunham, negro, who claimed to be 121 years old, died at his home here yesterday. He worked for his living to the time of his death.

Juvenile Players To Give Operetta

Juvenile stars of the MacDonald-Johnston children's dramatic training school, will give an operetta Thursday night, December 28. Seventy-five pupils of the school will take part in a modern production of "Jack and the Bean Stalk." It will be featured by songs, jokes and dances.

A feature of the program will be a fairy scene from Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Here are some of the principal participants in the operetta: Ruth Swann, Josephine Murray, Judy MacD, Johnston, Nellie and Margaret Grant, Dorothy Crum, Thelma Olanie, Doris Bennett, Lila Sullivan and Jean Cullins.

Read the Directions

Twenty-four of the advertisements appearing in this Directory contain words in which one letter is missing.

Contestants for the prizes are required to send in the list of twenty-four missing letters, stating in which advertisement each missing letter is found.

Inasmuch as no great difficulty will be had in finding the missing letters, the prizes will be awarded on the basis of Correctness and Originality of answers. For instance, a correct answer furnished in an original manner will be given preference over a correct answer showing no originality.

Solutions should be addressed to Directory Contest Editor, Oakland TRIBUNE, and must be delivered to the Oakland TRIBUNE office or bear a postmark not later than Monday, January 15th. Prize winners will be announced Saturday, January 20th.

200,000 BIRDS STILL LEFT IN GROWERS' HANDS

Turkey Surplus in Country Reported Heavy; Tons Go On Ice.

According to Eugene Austen of the Hunt-Hatch Company there are still 200,000 turkeys in the Sacramento valley awaiting a market. The surplus is the heaviest in years. A combination of San Francisco dealers bought tons of dressed stuff at 35 cents, which meant 35 cents delivered here, to find that the market refused to bear the new arrivals and the stuff was sent into storage.

Retailers during the day declared that the demand was good, but that the heavy surplus tended to keep prices away down.

WEEK'S CLEARANCES

Oakland bank transactions, as reported to the Oakland Chamber of Commerce by the Oakland Clearing House, for the week ending Thursday, were $1,753,385, an increase over last week of $171,618.

Clearings for the same week were $1,590,100, compared with $1,279,930 for the corresponding week last year and $1,620,500 last week.

S. F. WAGE BOARD
SEES NO CUT IN COST OF LIVINGPay Increases Due to Desire to Stimulate More Men to Take Up Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—There is no indication of any likelihood of a sufficient lowering of the cost of living to warrant a decrease in wages during the coming year, says a statement issued by the impartial wage board which yesterday announced pay schedules in the building trades for 1923.

MORE PAY FOR SOME

Wage increases are granted in eight of the building trades crafts of San Francisco, according to the award made by the board. The wage scales for all the other building trades crafts will remain the same as last year. The members of the board are Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, H. T. Brandenstein and C. F. Nichols.

Here are the increases provided in the award: Bricklayers, $1 a day more; hodcarriers, 50 cents; cement finishers, 50 cents; bridge and structural engineers, $1; housemiths on concrete, $1; carpenters, 50 cents; glass workers, 50 cents; the setters, 50 cents. The new scale becomes effective January 1.

INCREASE EXPLAINED.

The report explains that the increased wages in some crafts are justified because the building activity has produced a shortage in those branches of work. The increase in wages is designed to stimulate more men to enter those crafts.

NEW WAGE SCALE.

The wage scale provided by the "Impartial Wage Board" is as follows:

Sequoyah Plans
New Year's Eve
Celebration

The New Year's eve celebration at the Sequoyah Country Club will be one of the gala events of the season for the members and their guests and many reservations have been made. Dinner will be served Sunday. They will be the guests of the program until midnight, when the links and dancing will begin. Breakfast at 9 o'clock will be a feature of the New Year's observance. Among those who have reserved tables for the affair are the George Doves, Henry Doves, J. S. Palmers, E. C. Alexander, E. B. Blanton, William Thompsons, C. B. Hobson and Miss Hobson, E. C. Strattons, W. R. Davis, A. H. Cotter, Walter J. Wilsons, Herman Fritz Sagehornes, C. A. Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stratford and Miss Gertrude C. C.

SPEND HOLIDAYS WHILE ABROAD

Mrs. George Dinmore and niece, Miss Frances Dinmore of San Francisco, who have traveled in Europe for several months, are now making their headquarters in Nice and will tour Italy before leaving for home. They will spend the holidays at Florence and plan to return to California in February. Mrs. George Dinmore is a sister of Mrs. Robert Eschen of Alameda and Mrs. Lewis Sayre Mace, wife of Dr. Mace of San Francisco, whose daughter is with Mrs. Dinmore. Her parents are the A. W. Pattersons, who made their home in Alameda for many years, but are now established on a ranch in Pope Valley, Napa county.

In honor of Mrs. George Greenwood, a recent bride, Mrs. William Greenwood, who made their home recently at the Stanford Court Apartments, two-score matrons from both sides of the bay were bidden to greet Mrs. Greenwood, who will be remembered as Miss Gertrude Vincent of San Francisco. The bride and her bridesmaids, who made their home in the Greenwood's daughter, Mrs. Herbert Hall, and son, Monroe Greenwood, are Piedmont residents.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON HELD AT LAKE

The members of an informal bridge club met for luncheon at the Wild Duck tea room on Lake Merritt yesterday afternoon, when the winter season of the holiday season were carried over. Among those for whom covers were laid were the Mesdames Charles Raymond, J. E. Armstrong, Alberto Barrios, E. H. Body, Osmond Murdock, Herbert Van Riton, Leslie Wilson, N. E. Romie and Miss Elsie Moore.

The betrothal of Miss Josephine Le Conte, daughter of Mrs. and the late Louis J. Le Conte of Berkeley to Arthur Jory, also of the college town, was made public to the friends informally yesterday. Miss Le Conte is in the south and upon her arrival home for the holidays will be feted by her many friends preceding her wedding, which will be an important event of the post-holiday season. The bride-elect, who came from an old and prominent California family, is a graduate of the University of California and has been a member of the faculty of the Redwood High school for the past two years. She is a niece of Professor Joseph Le Conte of the University of California.

Arthur Jory is the son of John Jory of Berkeley and also a graduate of the State University. He is connected with a business firm over the bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gordon (Leone Priests) are the usual parents of a little daughter who arrived last Tuesday. Mrs. Gordon and little one are the guests of the young matron's parents, Dr. and will not return to their home in Santa Maria for a few months.

GIVES BODY TO SCIENCE. PARIS.—Before committing suicide in a cafe, Henri Perillat wrote a note directing that his body be used for scientific purposes.

FATHER had planned a brilliant future for him. Mother's high hopes for his success were supported by her everlasting faith in him.

But the boy was a bitter disappointment. He was being outdistanced steadily by his schoolmates, was dull, listless all the time, "felt sick" most of the time, never had "pep" for play nor ambition for his future.

Father had about given him up. Poor mother's heartstrings were nearing the breaking point. Evidently, it was not to be.

Then an old friend of the family—a man successful in every sense—came to the boy's rescue. Today, the father is proud of the boy who is indeed a joy to his mother.

It was simply a case of poor digestion, sluggish liver and constipation gradually dulling the senses and poisoning the system.

Knowing from experience that Becham's Pills were harmless as well as efficient, the old friend suggested them. They made the boy well—as they have hosts of other children, and grown-ups, too, who suffered from like disorders.

SANTA CLAUS IN PREMATURE VISIT
ON BAY FERRYAlameda Commuters Have Early Taste of Christmas Spirit.

Santa Claus staged a premature visit to Alameda mole today when he greeted the commuters on the 7:20 a. m. ferryboat, and under the auspices of the Alameda Scouts and Elks staged twenty minutes of merriment for all passengers.

When the electric trains pulled into the Alameda mole on the 7:30 run this morning the commuters rubbed their eyes in astonishment. Santa Claus rolled aboard the boat, huge gaily decorated truck at the entrance to the ferry slip. Members of the Alameda Scouts assumed the role of reindeer, and amid the music of the Scouts and Santa Claus rolled aboard the boat.

The land struck up the strain of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and then the merriment began. Gifts were distributed and confetti throwing added to the gaiety of the scene.

The affair was staged under the auspices of the afterdeck squad of the Scouts and Elks, with Carl Pessek acting as chairman, assisted by Roy Pratt, Howard Nicholas and Santa Claus, Alameda city officials were guests of honor.

When the ferryboat reached San Francisco the band went ashore and played the Oyster, Mrs. Helen Gardner, commissioner of civil service; president of the Women's City Club, District Federation of Women's Clubs, the Zonta Club, Rotary, Kiwanis, Optimist, Y. M. C. A. and other clubs.

Mrs. Ruby Lee Miner, classified as a real estate broker, is the first president of the eastern group. Associated with her as officers are: Dr. J. M. Green, American Association of Homeopaths; Mrs. Jessie L. Edmonston, photographer, vice-presidents; Mrs. Elsie H. Coleman, private secretary to a representative from Iowa, secretary; Mrs. Anna M. Bieglov, representative of the building construction classification, treasurer.

Because the women of the Twentieth Century Club hold a tender-ness for little children, through their interest 100 small guests were entertained at a Christmas party this week in the Derby street clubhouse. A twinkling tree laden with candy and nuts, toys and comfort-able garments, and a delicious feast, were the wonderful day. The Manual Training Department in the Berkeley public schools contributed the "things." The Berkeley chapter of the Needlework Guild of America cooperated with the women in providing attractive new garments.

The young guests joined Mrs. C. S. Pace in singing "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." The "Ginger Bread Man" far from Mrs. Andrew W. Bright, skilled in the art of story telling, related the tale of "Mr. and Mrs. Claus, who had a son, named Santa." The story of the Christ Child was told to the children by Mrs. Samuel W. Smith, Elton Blackaller, Loretta Allen and Jane King—pupils of Miss Virginia Marsh—presented a group of fancy dances. A Punch and Judy show was put on under the direction of Herbert Rose.

Mrs. Frank Honeywell was chairman of the Yuletide party. She was assisted in the arrangements by Mrs. W. C. L. Beard, Mrs. William G. Gester, Mrs. George N. Nash, Mrs. L. Kauffman, Mrs. H. Irving, Mrs. J. Van Bakkelen, Mrs. Samuel W. Smith, Mrs. Herbert P.

PLATES TO TEST
EINSTEIN THEORY
READY TO UNPACKResults of Observations Made
In Antipodes Are Received
At Lick Observatory.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—The photographic plates for which the entire scientific world is waiting because of the probability that they will either prove or disprove the Einstein theory, have arrived from the Antipodes at Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton, and are now being unpacked, according to Professor W. W. Campbell, observatory director, speaking here before the Commonwealth club.

It will be two or three months, however, before any definite conclusions can be drawn from these plates, which were made during the recent eclipse of the sun in Australia, Campbell said.

The plates, according to Campbell, exposed yesterday evening at the Lick Observatory, were made during the recent eclipse of the sun in Australia, Campbell said. # Churches Radiate Yuletide Spirit

Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men, Is Christmas Message

By RABBI RUDOLPH I. COFFEE.
Temple Sinai.

As the Christmas season approaches, breathing a noble message of love which is ignored too widely, alas, I would point to several spiritual gains in Oakland during the year. Let the reader point to our increase in land values, and the Chamber of Commerce and the many factories which have located in our community. The city administration will point to the increased harbor facilities, and the Board of Education will prove that our school facilities are wonderfully enlarged. Yet all these gains are worthless if the true American spirit of religious tolerance is lacking.

I believe that a finer spirit does predominate and a more kindly respect for those who differ from us, is manifest in Oakland. The lunch clubs, for example, realizing the importance of the minister, extend cordiality to clergymen to address them and to join as participating members. On a larger scale than ever before, ministers of one denomination are invited to speak from pulpits of a different faith. The Ethel Moore Memorial was dedicated by men and women of all religious beliefs. The Travelers' Aid Society, a year ago functioning poorly, is now one of the leading organizations in Oakland. It respects all with whom it comes in contact, regardless of religious affiliation. On its board are members of every great religious body in Oakland.

Best of all, as interpreting the new religious spirit was that magnificent union service held on Thanksgiving Day at the Municipal Auditorium. The Mayor of the city attended to emphasize the civic gain from the blending of all religions. A judge from the county court was present, emphasizing our duty toward the newly inducted citizens, whose religious affiliations we profoundly respect, without question as to what church they belong. The Lieutenant-Governor of the state added dignity to the occasion by explaining that America's greatness consisted in granting a haven to every form of religious belief. This wonderful blending of religious faiths seems, to me, the outstanding event in Oakland's year. With Europe seething in the cauldron of hates and too many cities of America blackened by mob violence and brute lynchings, Oakland preaches a message of peace on earth, because it lives a spirit of good will toward all mankind.

U. S. Is Hailed as Leader of World Pastor Tells of His Trip to Old World

Dr. O. R. Williams, pastor of the Welsh Presbyterian church, who has recently returned from a trip to Wales in giving his impressions of his visit to his homeland said: "In the first place let me make it clear that Wales is not England, though for convenience sake the name is often spoken of as England. Geographically, Wales is a small country, with its own language, customs and traditions. "In many things England and Wales are identical. They have the same form of government, the same freedom and liberty, yet it would be difficult to find two peoples so close to each other, who at the same time are so different. There was a time when Scotland, Ireland, Cornwall and other parts of Britain, each spoke their own language. Today the only language used to any extent in Wales is English. I believe the leaders of the new Ireland are endeavoring to revive the language with its rich and ancient literature. The Scots, with but very few exceptions, have long since abandoned their language. "Britain does not change like the United States. The skyline of Liverpool, if it can boast of such a thing, is almost exactly the same as when I left, eight years ago. This is not a bad indication of the manners and the customs of the people.

No hurry in Britain. "Here in America we seem to be always on the move. We are always in a hurry. Hustlers, 'boosters,' 'livewires,' etc., are some of our big words. In England you hardly ever hear of such individuals. It is not for me to say which is the better way. Very likely neither is better, they are only different. The visitor never sees such legends as 'short orders,' 'quick lunch,' 'quick service,' in the busiest parts of London, and the cafeteria is unknown. "If anyone were to ask me, which of our prominent men has done more to bring the two great English-speaking nations into closer relationship with each other, I should answer without any hesitation, Woodrow Wilson. "The thoughtful Britisher has a profound respect for Wilson the man and through him for the great nation which gave him to the world. In a word Mr. Wilson's sojourn in England has won for America a new respect and a profound admiration for the institutions of the great nation. The old prejudice is changing into praise. Woodrow Wilson, the man and the scholar, had much to do with this new and better condition of relationship between the two nations.

EFFECT OF GREAT WAR. "Everywhere one sees the effect of the great conflict, but one looks in vain for any signs of hatred, still less vengeance. From what I gathered in conversation with different people all over the country, it would have to be a very grave crisis, indeed, that could once again call out the men of Britain to war. "A very significant thing happened the other day over there. They were having a general election and the results show that almost every candidate who had opposed the war, was returned triumphantly. Scotland went over almost solid for labor. Did I say that England was slow to make any changes? Yes. But at this very moment a ceaseless and continual revolution is taking place over there. The militaristic spirit so far as the people are concerned is dead.

"In a religious way things are very much the same here as there. The church of England is still the state church in England, but only in England. The church was severed from the state in Wales after the war. The same reform will come about in England before very long. "Britain is singularly free from many 'Cults and Sects' that seem to thrive with us in America. They are practically unknown. The Britisher apparently does not take so kindly to these things as the average American.

FREE SPEECH IN BRITAIN. "Tolerance and freedom of speech is far more advanced in Britain than perhaps any other nation on earth. A man can say almost anything he likes and nobody seems to mind. Not long ago one of the labor members of Parliament got up in the House of Commons and practically told the king to mind his own business, while a professor in one of the universities told his class that the day would come when the king would find that he counted for so little in the affairs of government, he would simply resign. On the other hand, the young Prince of Wales is very popular with people of all classes.

"Prohibition is regarded as one of the great misdeeds of modern times. Its enactment here has won for America the unbounded admiration and unstinted praise of the best people of Great Britain. Few of us who never leave the shores of the United States are aware of the tremendous effect this is having upon the nations of the world.

The new world owes much to the old. Our painters and sculptors sit at the feet of the great masters of Europe. The millionaires of America go to Europe for travel and pleasure. But the masses of Europe are eagerly looking to America for leadership in the realm of moral and social uplift. Let it be said of this incomparable America of ours that she also is 'Allured to brighter worlds and leads the way.'

Lutherans to Give "Light of World" A special Christmas program entitled "The Light of the World" will be presented tomorrow evening by the choir and Sunday school of the First Lutheran church. At the conclusion of the program treats will be distributed to the children. Dr. G.H. Hillerman, the pastor, will speak at the morning service tomorrow on "The Birth of the Forerunner, John the Baptist."

On Monday, Christmas day, special services appropriate to the day will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. when Dr. Hillerman will speak on "The Story of the Nativity."

At Dawning

We send our love to one and all, on this blest Christmas morn,
Reflecting praise and gratitude, that Christ to us is born.
He set the great example, enabling us to see
The path that leads to Heaven, opening wide for you and me.
Unceasing love, unceasing praise all days throughout the year
Is due our loving Master, for showing the way clear,
So why confine our happiness to just this one glad morn?
In each reflection of his word, a new Christ thought is born.
In every Christ-like thought is gratitude divine.
It teaches us to live and say, "Not my will but Thine,"
So let's make all days Christmas, and celebrate each day
By thinking loving Christ-like thoughts, reflecting love alway.

Thousands of Trained Men Needed as Leaders

By DR. HERMAN F. SWARTZ,
President Pacific School of Religion.

There is a large and disquieting shortage of men devoted to pastoral service in America. One great denomination reports that one-third of its pulpits are without ministers and that it is necessary to move men with undue frequency from field to field in order that the maximum number of communities may have religious ministrations at least part time. Another great denomination has at least a thousand churches operating on what is called the one-a-month basis, a minister appearing every four weeks for a service and for such pastoral work as can be crowded into his brief visit.

It is seriously significant that the recruits for the ministry do not come from homes of those people who are economically prosperous beyond the average. Where a family sets its heart upon "success" in terms of wealth in general it is entirely unwilling to encourage its own sons to consider religious and altruistic work as a career.

On the other hand the teachings and ministrations of religion were never so essential to the welfare of mankind as today. Practically all waters on business affairs are emphasizing above all else the necessity for re-establishing a sound ethical consciousness and the renewing of the higher ideals of life. No period since the Renaissance has the opportunity for service of this type been so great or the promise so rewarding as in our own day.

A renewed confidence in the abiding values of social and spiritual realities is manifestly at hand. The ministry of religion is today, as it was in the time of the prophets of old, the standardizing, uplifting agency to this end.

Religious organizations have never been so thriving as today. The membership is larger, the congregations are greater, the funds are more ample, the equipment is better, and the program is more statesmanlike than in any previous period of the world.

The acute problem is at the point of leadership. The religious bodies of America could use with great advantage to us all not only more active and trained ministers, but especially more men of outstanding ability, enriched by the finest and more thorough available training.

Religion, as truly as law, medicine, and engineering, requires not only devotion and energy, but a high standard of graduate and a post-graduate training, enriched by ample laboratory and field experience. The four graduate schools of religion located around the Bay are of one accord in insisting upon this high standard both of native ability and of education equipment.

Poetry Is Called Faith's Vehicle Religion Voiced in Song Is View

By DR. H. O. BREEDEN,
Pastor First Christian Church.

If we may not say that "religion is poetry believed in," certainly we may say that religion is kin to poetry and lends itself to song. It implies a certain insight, such as poets have and it is thus that the poets have always been the best teachers of faith. Among the creators of literature the poet holds preeminent place.

The poet is painter, musician and prophet. He paints immortal pictures in words. He sings undying songs in cadences of surpassing sweetness to the rhythm and melody of exquisite beauty. He interprets spiritual truth in terms of life.

Some one has said that "Homer gave to Greece her gods." That is to say, it is the mission of the poet to give form, color and beauty to what would otherwise be vague, dim and unreal. All agree that in the width of his sympathies, in his analysis of the human soul, in the sweetness and vividness of his insight, the poet stands alone.

In his own distinction and power; as "a subtle assessor of the soul in song," as an interpreter of Christian faith in its distinctive outlook and appeal and as an apostle of immortality, there is no one like him.

The essence of poetry is to be found in philosophy. If anyone imagines that the art of poetry teaches us only dactyls and spondee, long and short syllables and the ornaments of speech he has fallen into a great mistake. The object of poetry is to persuade by means of that eloquence called an example expressed in mellifluous language so as to convince and at the same time delight us.

It has been said that "reason speaks through prose while poetry is the language of feeling." But true poetry lodges in the great thought that seeks to make itself known through any form of words that may be in harmony with its content.

measure with or without rhyme, but some of the highest and truest poetry in existence is to be found in the form of prose because it can not be crippled by the mechanism of language.

Its life is not found in words but in the common of imagery and the warmth of sublimity which seizes hope without precision and endows forms of speech with autocratic license.

Our claim that the religious poets are the greatest is grounded on the grandeur of their conceptions and the sublime heights of their ethical and spiritual sweep. You find the soul and substance of their poems not in the dress which clothes them or the jewels that adorn but in their purity, delicacy and soul life, in their ideals and divine inwardness. It is a wise, discriminating, illumining observation of Mudge that portrays the "poet as thinker, feeler, artist, combined." He is a man who sees "the infinite in things," who by his imagination gets nearer to the heart of life and penetrates closer to the core of truth than the cool reasoner or the scientific investigator. He is a man of intuition, insight, genius; an inspired man in the best sense, magnetic to God and a prime medium for divine communication to the world. A great poet must have

Unique Fete Christmas Planned for Goat Island Party for Hospital

Appropriate Services and Young Peoples' Societies
Programs Arranged For Naval Station.

The Christmas holidays are to be observed with appropriate services and programs at the naval training station on Goat Island.

The families of all people attached to the training station and the U. S. S. Boston, the receiving ship, will be entertained by a supper, entertainment, Christmas tree, and individual presents this evening, with the festivities to begin at 5 p. m. Santa Claus is scheduled to visit the station at this time.

Religious service will be held tomorrow at all the units of the training station and the receiving ship.

One hundred San Francisco children will be entertained by religious services, a Christmas tree and individual presents on Monday morning, with the program starting at 9:30 o'clock.

In the afternoon there will be an "old clothes" parade, when all people attached to the training station and receiving ship will form a line and bring to the drill hall any old or new clothing which they may wish to donate. These will be put in a pile and then wrapped and boxed and turned over to the proper officials of the Armenian Relief.

It is expected that there will be quite a demonstration at this part of the day's program. The several thousand sailors who are on the island put away their civilian clothing to put on the sailor's uniform when they came to the island, and will have no use for their "civies" for three years. By that time the cut will be quite out of style, and it is expected that the "parade" will not excite results.

There will be a Christmas tree in every unit of the training station and receiving ship. Special presents for the men in the hospital have been arranged by the army and navy Y. M. C. A. and the Alameda Red Cross.

The "Big feet" of the season will be on this day. Carols will be sung and dancing will assist in providing entertainment.

fruit in the wars. Through the efforts of E. Jensen, superintendent of the county hospital, assisted by August Miller, the following committee was arranged: Epworth League—Edw. Johnson, Earl Sweetman, J. W. Dodson, Sam Dodson; Christian Endeavor—Herbert Yung, H. Grandorf, Florence Grandorf; Christian Missionary Alliance—W. R. Ervay, C. E. Britton; Epistol Young People—H. K. Langdon, M. Thompson, Jacob Borglum, Mary Erickson, Esther Christensen.

The Melrose Baptist Young People will make their fourth annual Christmas pilgrimage to Arroyo Sanatorium with an offering of candy and flowers. They will present an attractive religious and musical program under the leadership of R. R. James.

High, Low Masses Are to Be Held A high mass, with special music, will open the Christmas observance at the St. Augustine's Catholic church, Berkeley, tonight. Low masses will be held tomorrow morning at 7, 8 and 9 o'clock. There will be a high mass with special music and sermon at 10:30 a. m. and a low mass followed by benediction at 12 noon.

Lutherans to Give "Light of World"

A special Christmas program entitled "The Light of the World" will be presented tomorrow evening by the choir and Sunday school of the First Lutheran church. At the conclusion of the program treats will be distributed to the children. Dr. G.H. Hillerman, the pastor, will speak at the morning service tomorrow on "The Birth of the Forerunner, John the Baptist."

On Monday, Christmas day, special services appropriate to the day will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. when Dr. Hillerman will speak on "The Story of the Nativity."

Hold Two Services

An English service will be conducted at 10 a. m. and a Swedish service at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the Bethany Lutheran church in observance of Christmas. Rev. A. W. Knuck, the pastor, will conduct both services.

On Christmas morning, "Juletid" will be given at 5:30, with both the Swedish and the English languages used. Special music will be presented by the choir at this time. In the evening the Sunday school Christmas program will be presented at 7, including special music by the choir and by the ladies and mixed quartets.

The Luther League will give a program and serve refreshments at 7:30 p. m. At 11:30 a short Sylvester service will be held.

Lutherans Try Union For Selves

Dr. G. H. Hillerman Says
Union Must Come At Home First.

By DR. G. H. HILLERMAN
(Pastor, First Lutheran Church.)

The Lutheran church has been severely censured in some quarters because it has not only refused to enter movements for church union, but has even been charged with speaking unfavorably of them. Her position, however, has been that it is better for each household to gather its own scattered portions together first, and then talk the wider union. During the past few years, she has been putting her preaching into practice, so that the several Norwegian Synods united in one body and the three large English-speaking Synods, the General Synod, the General Council, and the United Synods of South America, have been united into the United Lutheran church in 1917. This latter union was effected chiefly by the agitation and activity of prominent laymen of the three bodies, and is winning out with good prospects for the realization of other synodical bodies within the near future.

The main directing interests of the United Lutheran church are in New York City, where the executive officers are, and in Philadelphia where the publication house is located, with other cities of Pennsylvania and Maryland as headquarters for the various boards. The tendency, however, is for the development of the work westward. The Board of Home Missions and Church Extension is to be moved from York, Pa., to Chicago in January, 1923, and the Pacific coast has its first representative on this board in the person of Dr. O. H. Gruver of Oakland, who was elected to the position in October.

The enlargement of the Theological Seminary now located at Seattle, and its relocation in one of the San Francisco bay cities, was determined upon at the last convention, but final action waits on the meeting of the Pacific Synod in Tacoma, Wash., in January, this Synod being the founder and present owner of the seminary.

Opportunities for missions, supervising the work of all the mountain and coast territory, was elected by the executive committee on December 21, and will be located in one of these bay cities. This office will later develop into a branch of the Lutheran publication house, and with the possibility of a Lutheran center building.

A committee is at present actively at work investigating property in the South, with the view to establishing an Old Folks' Home in California. Prominent in agitating this Old Folks' Home project is a society of young women in the First church of this city, known as the Mary and Martha circle, which society has already a neat sum in bank for the work.

Christmas Service To Open Holidays

The holiday season at St. Mark's Evangelical church will be inaugurated with a Christmas service tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, at which time the pastor, Rev. E. Baizer, will speak on "The Greatest Christmas Gift in the World." The Lord's Supper will be celebrated immediately after the service.

On Monday, Christmas morning, at 10 o'clock there will be a service in the German language, followed by the Lord's Supper. The Sunday school program and "White Gift" service is to be held on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The members of the Sunday school will take part with songs and recitations and special music will be rendered by the choir and other talent within the church.

The newly-organized and vested choir, under the direction of Roy Brown, will sing at the morning service, which will begin at 11 o'clock. A male quartet has a place in the musical program, and solos will be sung by various soloists.

The pastor, Rev. A. E. Peterson, will preach a Christmas sermon, selecting the thought upon "The King's Birthday," and in conclusion the choir and special voices will render the cantata, "The Message of the Angels." The regular choir will be assisted by Arthur Frost, Stanley Hanson, Dixon Irvine, tenor, and Charles Herriot.

The young people of the church will enjoy a foretaste of the Christmas season this evening, when the Sunday school classes and their friends will be entertained by talent among the young people of the Christian Endeavor. There will be instrumental music, and a Christmas playlet will be given by the Rinehart players. ## The Prince of Peace

CHRIST had to come. There was a world-longing that could never be filled with all the practiced schemes of human life. Art, culture, civilization, law—these all had been given fair trial. But the human heart found no lasting peace till the Prince of Peace was born. Since He is the Prince of Peace, He will establish peace in human hearts and in the world. Hearts as restless as the sea are to be quieted at His word. Over the storm-tossed Galilee of every troubled heart, the "Peace be still" is yet to be spoken and there will come calm and rest.

Universal peace will never come through militaristic impositions of peace at the sword's point, through a literalistic interpretation of fourteen points in a Peace Program, or through an idealistic conversion of implements of warfare into implements of agriculture—but by the enthronement of the Prince of Peace in every war-like heart.

Holiday Events Are Arranged

The Filipino Christian Service association which meets every Sunday afternoon for Bible study at the First Methodist Episcopal church, is planning two special events before the close of the year. One of these will be presented tomorrow when the regular program will be made up of Christmas songs, Christmas scripture, and topics for discussion.

This association, of which many of the officers and members are university and high school students, is also taking an active part in elaborate preparations for the celebration of Rizal day on Friday evening, December 29, at the Technical High school.

The association officers and some of the committee members who are working for the success of the Christmas meeting are the president, A. T. Vargas, and A. Ferrar, S. Soriano, Juan Reyes, Cosme Salvatus, Gaudencio Tolentino, S. Sal-

Many to Attend Dedication of Temple in L. A.

Members of the Echo Park Evangelistic Association and the Temple Baptist church are making plans and arrangements to attend the dedication of Angeles Temple at Los Angeles on New Year's day. This is the temple which is being constructed by Almee Sempé McPherson, the woman evangelist who conducted a meeting in Oakland last fall. May of those who became interested in her work are expected to attend the dedication which will start at midnight on the last day of the year.

A special car has already been chartered and as many more as are necessary will be obtained to carry the delegation to Los Angeles. The cars will leave First and Broadway at 7:13 a. m. on Saturday morning, December 30.

Miss Grace Kellogg is at the head of the association which is arranging the details. A meeting is to be held on Tuesday evening when others who wish to go will have an opportunity to make their reservations, and final plans will be discussed.

Advisors, J. Roscober, A. Anthony and J. K. Austria.

Oakland Girl Is Named Secretary Of Student Body

Miss Charlotte Jones of Oakland, California, has been elected secretary of the special students at the School of Religious Education of Boston University. The School of Religious Education is only one of the many departments of the university. The enrollment of the entire university this year is more than ten thousand. Besides having students from every state in the Union, there are more than twenty foreign countries represented among the students.

Boston University, which is the largest co-educational institution in New England, has approximately 1300 more students enrolled this fall than at this time last year. The greatest increase has come in the School of Law where 802 students are enrolled this year, with an entrance class of 341. This is partly true because of the fact that this is the last year when a student can enter direct from high school, without college preparation. Next year one year of college work will be required for entrance and in 1935, two years of college work will be necessary.

The Graduate School also has a 22 per cent increase in enrollment. The School of Medicine has the largest enrollment in its history with 192 students registered.

Good Will to Be Christian Church Topic

"Good Will Among Men," is the Christmas theme that will run through all of the services tomorrow at the Fruitvale Christian church. Rev. Kelly O'Neill, the pastor, will preach at the morning service on the topic, "Is There a Santa Claus?" The background of the service will be made up of Christmas carols and the anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," by Shelley. At the evening hour the annual Christmas program will be presented by the church school, of which J. V. Symington is superintendent. "While Gifts for the King" is the theme of this program, and at its conclusion gifts of food will be presented by the pupils of the school for distribution to the needy. A cash offering will also be presented for the maintenance of aged ministers. A large number of children will participate in the program, one feature of which will be a pageant, "The Gift of Love."

The Christmas cantata, "The Herald of Peace," by Galbraith, will be given by the choir of the church on Sunday night, December 31.

WILL YOU HELP? NOW?

Just one example of many

Seven children, hungry and unclothed, through no incompetence or failing of their parents.

This is the family of a well-to-do and self-respecting business man, ruined by the war that made others rich.

Paid his debts to the last cent, even with the home over his head.

Such men must not be led to doubt the justness of their acts—there are not enough such men.

You must help! We need clothing for seven children, the youngest twins of three months. We need not only bedding but absolutely bread, today. This case cannot wait.

This is but one of many of the tasks that are borne by the Salvation Army, for the most part, in silence, but at Christmas time we need your help sorely, not for ourselves, but for the destitute. It is in the knowledge that you will help that we make this appeal.

Send checks marked "Christmas Fund" to Salvation Army, in care of Adjutant Barnes, 533 Ninth Street.

Christmas Choir of Eighteen Voices to Feature Services

MISS FERN BACKMAN, violinist, who will render several selections at the Christmas program of the First Universalist church tomorrow.

First Universalist Church Arranges Interesting Program to Be Given in Hotel Oakland Rose Room

A new chorus choir of eighteen voices, composed of talented young people of the church, will furnish the Christmas music at the First Universalist church, in the rose room of Hotel Oakland. There will be several special numbers, together with the Christmas carols, rendered by the chorus. Miss Ruth Parry will sing, "Sleep, My Little Jesus," by Gabriel, and the choir will give a French Noel, "Miss Fern Backman, violinist, will have a special Christmas number. The sermon will be upon "Universal Christmas," expressing completely the ideals hinted at in the recent Christmas pageant at the Auditorium.

On Wednesday evening, December 27, there will be a Christmas party for the "Harmonizer" magazine which is published by Rev. Bernard Ruzgles. The evening will be given over to an entertainment, in which all the leading metaphysical and psychological magazines will be represented on the program by stunts and greetings to the "Harmonizer." There will be a Christmas tree upon which will be hung the checks and drafts which will be received from subscribers all over the country. All local readers, subscribers and friends of the "Harmonizer" are invited to the party which will be held at Hotel Oakland.

The eighth anniversary of the founding of the church will be celebrated on January 7. This is the one great day in the church, in which the Daily Vacation Bible school was used last year by more than 500 Presbyterian churches to increase the number of hours of religious instruction offered to their children. A large percentage of the children who attended the school during the year.

will be followed by a birthday party Monday evening, January 8, which will take the form of a banquet. New Year's Sunday will be observed next Sunday and will also be an attractive service. Rev. Bernard C. Ruzgles will speak then on "Tomorrow's Door."

Eight services for the observance of Christmas will be held tomorrow at St. Mary's Catholic church. The first service will begin at 12 o'clock midnight and will consist of a solemn high mass at which Rev. E. P. Dempsey will be celebrant. Rev. Thomas Cullen, deacon, and Rev. Thomas F. Fleming, subdeacon. Special music will be rendered by the following young women: Regina Monzo, Alice Carmelli, Eva Stromberg, Marion Ring, Helen Ring, Margaret Dwyer, Mary Dwyer, Mary Quirkie, Susan Quirkie, Marie Barron, Genevieve King, Mary Toranzo, Clara Toranzo, Margaret Smith.

At 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock there will be low masses, with music at the 9 o'clock by the junior choir. At 11 o'clock there will be a solemn high mass at which Rev. James J. O'Reilly will be celebrant. Rev. Thomas Cullen, deacon, and Rev. Thomas F. Fleming, subdeacon. At this service the choir of St. Mary's, under the direction of Miss G. L. Wilkie, will sing Turton's Mass. At the offertory Novello's "Adagio Fideles" will be sung. Portions of the music will be repeated at the 12:15 mass. Mrs. Florence Gregory will preside at the organ. The members of St. Mary's choir who will sing on Christmas morning are: Mesdames E. C. Hutton, D. E. Osgood, H. Mullock, E. Smith, J. Ponzano, M. Friedberg and C. Bannon. The Misses M. Ring, B. Duddy, F. Osuna, M. Smith, B. Pelletier, M. Falkenstein, J. Kennedy, G. L. Wilkie, Messrs. W. Schoeninger, G. L. Taylor, Joseph Young, W. L. Blunt, H. Winter.

The sermons at these services will be preached by Rev. Thomas Cullen. The evening services will begin at 8 o'clock and will consist of devotion, sermon and benediction of the blessed sacrament.

The Daily Vacation Bible school was used last year by more than 500 Presbyterian churches to increase the number of hours of religious instruction offered to their children. A large percentage of the children who attended the school during the year.

will be followed by a birthday party Monday evening, January 8, which will take the form of a banquet. New Year's Sunday will be observed next Sunday and will also be an attractive service. Rev. Bernard C. Ruzgles will speak then on "Tomorrow's Door."

St. John's To Open Service At Midnight

Church Decorated for Special Observance; Two Masses To Be Sung.

The custom of ushering in Christmas day with a midnight service, together with the promise of excellent music, is to be observed by both members and friends of St. John's parish tonight. The church has been adorned with flowers and greens and the full solemnities of the majestic ritual of the Episcopal church will be in keeping with the occasion, while a large chorus choir, under the direction of Mrs. William H. Rost, A. G. O., will render two choral masses, one at 11:45 p. m. Christmas eve, and the second at 10 a. m. Christmas day.

Midnight mass, Christmas eve, 11:45 p. m.: Processional, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks"..... Traditional.

CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS.

White Christmas is being observed in practically all of the churches this year. The custom which was established several years ago is gaining in popularity each year. Instead of the children of the congregation coming to the church for a program and being loaded down with gifts and candy to take to their homes the children now come to the church carrying arms full of clothing, food and other things needed by the poor and needy.

The season of Christmas, although universally observed in the Christian world as the feast in commemoration of the birth of Jesus of Nazareth, still has many of the customs and traditions which originated at a festival observed long before the birth of Christ. The Saturnalia of the Romans and the winter festival of the heathen Britons were both celebrated about December 25. Later the Roman festival in honor of the sun-god Mithra, was instituted in about 273 A. D. From the latter the day became known as the "Birthday of the Unconquered Sun," and after its adoption by the Christian church in the fourth century as the anniversary of Christ's birth, this name was given a symbolic interpretation.

YULE LOG CUSTOM.
The lighting of the Yule log, (la buche de Noel) on Christmas Eve, once a widespread European custom, was a function of such importance among the Lithuanians and leters that their word for Christmas Eve, signifies "Log Evening."

The decoration of churches and homes with once sacred mistletoe and holly is a pagan survival, as well as the custom of the presenting of Christmas gifts.

The Christmas tree with its colored decorations and gifts for the children is of German origin. Luther Christmas or Santa Claus, who is supposed to come from the far north in his reindeer sleigh is identified with St. Nicholas and also with Knecht Ruprecht and Robin Goodfellow.

Most of the ancient customs associated with the winter solstice are now obsolete; a sentimental interest was revived in them during the writings of Washington Irving took a part. However, during the war and the time of need among a great many of the European

Piedmonters Plan Special Celebration

A special Christmas sermon will be delivered tomorrow morning at the Piedmont Interdenominational church by Rev. Charles D. Milliken, the pastor.

An elaborate program of music has been arranged by the director of music, W. J. Trevorrow. The "Celeste Trio," harp, violin and cello, will give Faure's "Romance," and also will assist in Shelley's "Christmas," with double quartet of soloists, and in the bass solo, "The Nativity," by the same composer, and also in Coomb's anthem, "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning."

A supplied choir of boys under the direction of Professor Ball will lead the processional and recessional.

The order of the service tomorrow morning will be: Prelude, "Romance"..... Faure.
Harp, violin, cello.
Processional.
Anthem, "Christmas"..... Shelley.
Scripture reading.
Carol, "Wonderful Night"..... Ball.
Children's sermon.
Prayer.
Anthem, "Brightest and Best"..... Coombs.
Solo, "The Nativity"..... Shelley.
Hymn.
Benediction.
Postlude.

"BEHOLD! I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS OF JOY"

"Unto YOU is born this day a SAVIOUR, who is CHRIST the Lord!"

For Nineteen Centuries Christian preachers have re-echoed this message of joy, and, hearing it, Christian people have rejoiced. For Nineteen Centuries Christian choirs have sung, "PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN!"

Yet Lloyd George recently said: Because there are many people to whom the glad tidings have come who have not sought the Child of Bethlehem, the Saviour, and yielded Him their worship. Your Faith and Action helps the cause of Peace and Good Will when you support the churches by attending public worship.

"If the Churches of Christ throughout Europe and America allow (another war) to fructify, they had better close their doors." Why should that need be said today

Poetic Drama Planned for Yule Service

Plymouth Congregational to Give Program of Special Music.

The program of Christmas music at the Plymouth Congregational church has been arranged under the direction of Gerard Tallander, the organist, and will consist of the following:

MORNING PROGRAM.
Organ prelude, Pilgrims' Chorus.
Wagner. Anthem, "There Shall a Star from Jacob." Mendelssohn.
Quartet, "The Sleep of the Child Jesus." Graven.
Quartet, "O Come Let Us Worship." Palestrina.
Anthem for solo and quartet, "Christmas Bells." Stevenson.
Bass and soprano solo with quartet, "Brightest and Best." Hanscomb.
Offertory, "The Infant Jesus." Von.
Organ postlude, Christmas.

The subject of the evening sermon by the pastor will be "What Think Ye of Christ?"
At the evening service in the church auditorium there will be given a poetic drama, "The Little Shepherd," by Jean Campbell MacMillan, under the direction of Mrs. Genevieve Wade Hatch. There will be processions, tableaux, chorus of carolers, with one hundred people in the cast, in colorful costumes.
The lighting effects are elaborately planned under the direction of E. N. Scott Helph.

The Christmas Mood

By JOHN SNAPE, D. D.
In the city of King David,
On a wondrous Christmas morn,
In a humble stable manger
Jesus Christ a babe was born.
And the Shepherds on the hillside
Guarding well their flocks by night
Start with sudden fear and wonder
At the shining Heavenly light.

Out the prophets warned the people:
Oft to God the people cried;
Flared a Nation's faith and faded,
For a Nation's hope had died.

Then four centuries of silence,
Long, long years of sin and wrong,
Break with happy Christmas story,
Glow with life in angels' song.

Wise Men view the sky signs flashing
In the East they see His star,
And their fragrant presents bringing.
End their journey from afar.
Wise Men still their best are bringing.
Less than best is best than meet;
May we lay our heart's best treasure
In glad offering at His feet.

For the Lord of life and glory,
Born indeed of humble birth,
Is the Son of God most truly,
Is the Saviour of the earth.
And He means that Christmas
gladness
In all hearts however rude,
Shall persist in sweetest fragrance
An abiding Christmas mood.

Dr. Breedon To Address Bible Class

Dr. H. O. Breedon, pastor of the First Christian church, will address the Everyman's Bible class meeting at the Franklin theater tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock Dr. Breedon will deliver a Christmas message at the church. The evening services at the church tomorrow will be in observance of the Christmas holidays. In lieu of the regular sermon at this service Dr. Breedon will give an interpretation of "A Christmas Carol" by Dickens. The Sunday school held its Christmas entertainment last night in which all the classes told of their experiences and joy in giving. In addition to the work done and donations made in bringing joy to needy families an offering was taken for the ministerial aid fund for disabled and aged ministers.

Unique Christmas Program Arranged

A unique Christmas program will be presented at the Melrose Methodist Episcopal church with Rev. C. W. Robins, and the congregation and the Sunday school co-operating. "White Gifts for the King," is the general theme for the observance and gifts of self service and substance are being solicited. "The children of the church for the children of the world—the naked and starving children of Russia, the poor of Armenia and the persecuted of Armenia will share in our Christmas offering," stated Rev. Robins in speaking of the object of the service. A part of the service tomorrow morning will be presented by the primary and junior departments of the Sunday school. Carols will be sung and children's exercises will be given. The program will be continued at the evening service, when Rev. Robins will bring a stereoscopic representation of "Childhood in Many Lands." The Epworth League is taking care of the decoration of the church and Sunday school auditorium for the special services.

Temple Baptist to Organize Orchestra

One of the most eventful days in the history of the church was held last Sunday at the Temple Baptist church when extensive plans for extension and the new year's work were discussed. Plans were instituted for the organization of a church orchestra and other improvements. The series of sermon lectures which is being delivered by Dr. W. K. Townner, of the First Baptist church of San Jose, is meeting with success.

Structure Dedicated to Bible School Study For Use Every Day

Grace tabernacle has recently been opened on Twentieth street, being dedicated to the purpose of "a Bible school solely for the study of the Word of Life, and a place where the church of Christ may meet as members of His body." The building is open every day in the year. Leading teachers of the land in connection with the Moody and Los Angeles Bible Institutes are scheduled for Bible conference work in the near future. The church is in a reconstructed dwelling which has been remodeled into a church auditorium and an office. Dr. S. A. Sackerson, of the Fresno Evangelical church, and S.

Nativity to Be Depicted In Pageant

Children of Trinity Episcopal Church School to Enact Spectacle.

A pageant of the Nativity will be presented by the children of the church school at Trinity Episcopal church at 11 a. m. tomorrow. The Nativity play, as given at Trinity, begins with the proclamation of four Old Testament prophecies of the coming of the Messiah. Then follow the annunciation scenes, to Zacharias promising the birth of John the Baptist, and to the Virgin Mary and to Joseph promising the birth of Jesus. Following the recitation of the Magnificat, the angel brings the good tidings to the shepherds. After the interview of the wise men with King Herod, there is pictured the flight of the shepherds to the manger, and finally, the adoration of the wise men. Carols and hymns are sung as the pictures are presented. At the close of the service the children bring their gifts to the manger. These toys will be sent to the Baby Hospital of Oakland. The musical service will begin at 11 a. m. with the singing of the old traditional carols will be sung. The offertory will consist of selections from G. Witney Coombs' cantata, "The First Christmas." Chorus, "Blessed Be the Lord," mezzo-soprano solo, "As He Spoke," sung by Mrs. Alice Clark; soprano solo, "The Stars Shine Bright," sung by Miss Virginia Graham; carol, "Sing Ye, 'Christmases of Heaven,'" by the choir. The pastor will speak briefly on "The Gift Given Silently." At the celebration of the holy communion at 10:30 a. m. Monday, a new Christmas tree will be set up. Yetter, and also an anthem, "Holy Night," with tenor solo and chorus. The pastor will preach on "The Progress of Peace." The Christmas tree for the children will be lighted on Wednesday, December 27, at 7:30 p. m. There will be a cantata, "The Road to Bethlehem," consisting of carols and recitations by the children. This will be followed by a three-reel picture showing "The Dawn of Christianity." This feature is supplied by the Department of Educational Instruction of the University of California. The holy communion will be celebrated on Wednesday and St. Stephen's day and St. John's day.

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR HOLIDAY IN FRUITVALE

Rev. P. M. Walker, pastor of the Fruitvale Presbyterian church, will preside at both the morning and evening services tomorrow, the theme of which is to be "Good Tidings for All" at the morning service, and "No Room in the Inn," at the evening service. Special musical numbers to be rendered both morning and evening by the Chorus Choir under the direction of Charles Lloyd are: Five carols, "Good Christian Men, Rejoice," "We Three Kings of Orient Are," "Silent Night," "The First Noel"; two anthems, "Brightest and Best," (by Combs), with a violin obligato by Orley See, first violinist of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah" by Handel.

Martha Dukes Parker will preside at the organ, her numbers including such selections as "Alleluia" by William Faulkner, and "Pastoral Symphony" from "The Messiah."

In the morning, the service will begin promptly at 11 o'clock with the administration of the Ordination. Dr. John Shupe will read a message to a number of candidates. Dr. Shupe will read the Christmas message which will be on "The Fulfillment of Time," and Hugh J. Williams will sing one of his best numbers entitled, "Cantique de Noel" by Adams.

The evening program will begin at 7:30 instead of the usual time of 7:45, and the Chorus Choir, including the quartet consisting of Hazel Gilbert Mackay, Ruth Hall

Christmas Story Told In Playlet

Young People of First Baptist Church Are Arranging Entertainment.

A dramatization of Raymond McFadden's Christmas story, "How the Chimes Rang," will be presented by a group of young people at the Christmas service tomorrow night, at the First Baptist church. Roberta Wells, formerly of Oakland High School Dramatic Society and recently identified with the Players' Club, will direct the presentation assisted in various capacities by Mrs. Clarence Caldwell, Mrs. George Thomas, Mrs. H. Mackinson, Mrs. E. A. Parker and Earl Brown.

The cast includes several experienced amateur thespians who have enjoyed popularity before church audiences as well as high school and college gatherings. Those named by Miss Wells are: Mrs. Paul Wasson, Miss Ida Mae Kucipia, Richard Samples, Wilbur Hopkins, George E. Wendt, Wendell Swanson, Ansel Patten and Lucile Self—the latter a leading man of some note in amateur dramatic circles.

Incidental music throughout the play will be under the direction of Martha Dukes Parker, organist of the First Baptist church, who will have at her command a quartet of talented musicians. Lighting will be in charge of Earl Brown.

The dramatization to be rendered by this group of young people is the same one so successfully presented by the Baker Players at Harvard last year.

The appearance tomorrow night of Miss Wells' players results from a request that this play, presented last night at the church, be repeated for the enjoyment of the Sunday night audience.

Crandall, Hugh J. Williams, and Charles Lloyd, will be augmented by the Oakland Real Estate Board Glee Club in the singing of the carols. Dr. Shupe will speak on "What Shall We Give?" Ruth Hall Crandall will sing, "The Virgin's Lullaby" by Buck and Orley See will play a violin solo. At the close, members of the Bible School will repeat the play, "Why the Chimes Rang" given at the annual Christmas entertainment last night in the church auditorium, and which has become famous in the East as one of the Baker-Harvard contest plays. This is an impressive, artistic dramatization, beautifully colored, lighted, and costumed.

Dr. Wendte To Speak on Christmas

Illustrated Lecture Will Mark Evening Service At First Unitarian.

Rev. Charles W. Wendte, D. D., has been secured to give the Christmas sermon tomorrow morning at the First Unitarian church, his subject being, "Christmas and Childhood." Christmas carols will be sung by the choir beginning at 10:45 a. m. The musical program will be as follows:

Miss Virginia de Fremery, Musical Director and Organist Rev. Clarence Reed, the pastor, will give an illustrated address appropriate to Christmas eve at 8 p. m. entitled, "Jesus in Art." The life of Jesus as portrayed by Rembrandt, Raphael, Da Vinci, Murillo and Titian will be described.

CHOIR MUSIC

WILL FEATURE

YULE SERVICE

Pre-Christmas services will be held tomorrow at the Central Lutheran church when Rev. J. Berg, the pastor, will deliver a sermon on "Keeping Watch," and the choir will render the anthems, "O Holy Night" (cantique de Noel, Adams) and "Shout the Glad Tidings" (Mollenbrigg).

The Christmas day festival service to be held on Monday morning is to consist of: Organ prelude, Noel.....Buck Organist, Cornelia F. Anderson. Hymn, Joy to the World. Altar service, Choir anthem, The Plains of Bethlehem.....Buck P. J. Oksen, director; L. J. Oksen, senior soloist. Scripture lesson, Anthem, Arise, Shine, for Thy Light is Come.....Shelley L. Meyer, tenor soloist. Anthem, In This Our Happy Christmas Tide. Sermon, "Heavenly Harmonies" Rev. Jos. H. Berg. Soprano solo, The Birthday of the King.....Neidlinger Mrs. H. J. Anderson. Hymn, Now Sing We, Now Rejoice. Offertory, Impromptu.....Schubert Choir anthem, There Were Shepherds.....Mansfield Soprano soloist, Mrs. H. J. Anderson. Hymn, "Holy Night, Peaceful Night." Postlude, Festival March, Merkel

On Tuesday evening at 7:45 a Christmas tree festival will be held. The program on that evening will consist of: Children's service, "The Christmas Tree," lighting of the Christmas tree, carol, "Silent Night, Holy Night"; manger scene, carol, "Away in a Manger, No Crib for His Bed." An offering will be taken at the close of the program for needy children and a contribution of gifts will conclude the evening.

London Servants

Taught Singing

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Singing has been added to the curriculum of the central committee on women's training and development. This organization teaches girls the duties of domestic servants and is fostered by a government subsidy. The announcement that singing will be taught has evoked widespread criticism.

Former Chaplain Tells of Prison Religious Training

By OLIVER C. LAIZURE.

What is a prison? It is the abode of those unfortunate whom everyone has deemed anti-social and who may by due process of law have been disposed of for an indefinite period. No thought is usually given in court for the man himself; only for his offense.

Who is this person? From whence did he come? What about his family? Who are his associates? How about his school life? What of his mental limitations? Does he frequent desirable places? What of his habits? Is he religiously inclined? Has he contact with the church?

These and a multitude of other questions suggest themselves only to be answered by most people with "I don't know."

Once inside of prison walls the situation changes. The man previously but little known, reveals himself. His life history, his habits, his tendencies, his disposition, his character, become well known. The careful study of these elements in the individual is the province of the chaplain. To him, as to no other, men will commit themselves, knowing that their secrets will meet a genuine sympathy and interest.

CAMOUFLAGE IMPOSSIBLE

Men live in such close association that camouflage is impossible. He who starts upon the pathway of life must needs "walk straight." He is respected for his stand, even though he may be the butt of some ridicule at first. Hearts breaking with anguish and remorse find peace and joy which words can not describe. The "Old Book" becomes a daily companion and guide. The chaplain who said to the dying thief, "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise" speaks peace to the soul of the living offender.

Christian work is varied. Services are conducted by the Jews, Catholics, Christian Scientists, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, Scandinavians, Lutherans, Japanese, Negroes and Theosophists. The chaplain conducts two services monthly in the chapel and also in the women's department and is always available for spiritual advice and comfort. The Sunday when no one makes an open start in the Christian way or the day when none starts to live in the "happy" of decisions only to decide for God, is most exceptional. Christian workers (nurses) in the prison are "everlastingly at it" and splendid results follow their efforts. Not all who start remain true, but a larger percentage may be counted upon than among free people.

Denominationalism is prohibited by men themselves. By this the gains which are made are held. Doctrinal peculiarities do not help the new converts.

The largest Christian Endeavor Society in the state is here, and I am credibly informed by a former state C. E. officer, boasts of more conversions annually than all of the "free" societies in California.

HAVE HAD INSTRUCTION.

The great majority of men coming here have been associated at some time or other with some church. Hundreds have been members, but the instruction and spirit seem never to have gone very deeply into their life. Very few men reach prison who have not been in Sunday school at some time or other. The age at which they dropped out is between 12 and 14 years. One man, for many years a minister in a leading denomination, recently stated that "no person in the Sunday school and church where he attended as a boy had ever held up to him the claims of Jesus."

The prisoner must needs be recognized as a spiritually sick man. As such he calls for intensive work by the spiritual leadership of the prison. "It is through his spiritual ministrations that the chaplain makes the greatest opportunity to understand many of the fundamental needs of the individual man and through such contact he has opportunity to branch out into other practical lines of work as has no other officer in the prison." To him falls the privilege and duty of acquainting a man with his higher self. To him come the men who are troubled about many things. It is not enough to urge them "to cast their care upon God," for the human touch is also necessary. One boy, popular in the time or other. Every one of them was worth saving. Some of them came from broken homes. Some lost their best friend, their mother, after coming here. Some of them forsook Christ outside, only to find Him again in San Quentin. All are need right handling. All need human interest. All are worth saving. All are social liabilities who must be converted into social assets. The greatest crime is against these boys. So little has been done to hold them and keep them outside of prison walls, when such splendid opportunities were afforded both church and state for so doing.

Until a better system than prison has been evolved for the correction of social offenders; for the conversion of liabilities into assets, whatever angle the question of the prisoner is viewed, the religious community is bound to give its most consecrated and effective work if we are to approach the ideal. Here in prison is conducted a gigantic reclamation service. Mothers' boys come here. Two hundred and fifty of them arrived in 1921 who were less than 21 years old. Every one of them had been in touch with Sunday school or church at some
